Treaty Rules
Japs Must Pay
Reparations

Will Sign Treaty
At Frisco Meet
On September 4

By GEORGE DURNO
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The United States and Britain today made public a final draft of the proposed Japanese peace treaty in which Japan is firmly committed to a reparations program.

No major changes were made in the final text from terms previously proposed. The treaty is to be signed at a peace conference opening in San Francisco on September 4.

Changes Technical

Ambassador-at-Large John Foster Dulles told a news conference that the numerous changes in language over earlier drafts were "chiefly technical and designed to meet specific problems raised by various Allied countries."

He added that two changes were "appreciable." One deals with missing Japanese prisoners of war; the other with the demand by Asiatic countries for a stronger reparations clause.

Included in the final text is a new paragraph calling for all signatories to recognize the Potsdam proclamation terms covering the return of Japanese military forces "to the extent not already completed."

It was under the Potsdam proclamation that the United Nations recently opened an inquiry into the whereabouts of 350,000 Japanese who never have been returned to their homes by Russia.

The treaty spells out firmly that "in any previous draft that Japan 'should pay reparations'—caused by it during the war." It provides that Japan must enter into negotiations with Asiatic countries with a view of making some restitution for damages.

Ship Raw Materials
The final treaty proposes that these countries shall negotiate with Japan to ship raw materials to Japan for processing, chiefly at Japan's expense.

A bus making its way up Highland avenue this morning read "Sampson Street" instead of bearing its usual sign "Highland Avenue." A breakdown caused a switch in buses and the operator forgot to change the sign.

One local motorist who desired to be safe from a parking ticket in the downtown area, paid for his full two hours on the meter and then left an extra penny on top of the meter for safety first for the officer to insert in case he didn't get back in two hours. The incident occurred on North Mercer street Wednesday afternoon.

Younger folks of the district found it difficult to board city buses on Wednesday afternoon as the old timers really took over. During the early afternoon hours regular and special buses were loaded to the doors with the older folks who were enroute to the Park to take in the "goings on." Weather cooperated perfectly and the youngsters of yesterday really enjoyed themselves.

Johnson Bronze
Plant On Strike,
Parleys Fail

Production Halts
Pickets Parade;
Office Force Works

Production halted in the Johnson Bronze plant Wednesday night at 11 o'clock when a strike was called.

Negotiations over the past weeks broke off Wednesday afternoon with several issues unresolved and with the finish of the 3 to 11 shift, the production lines ground to a halt.

Picket Line At 8
The strike activity actually started shortly after 8 o'clock Wednesday night when pickets made their appearance on South Mill street in front of the plant.

Union truck drivers who appeared at the plant at that time to haul product out of the plant refused to cross the picket line and the shipments stopped nearly three hours before the strike was actually in effect.

The contract between management and the United Auto Workers expired Wednesday. For several weeks negotiations have been in progress and a number of concessions made.

Revisions upward were made in the hospital and welfare plan, vacation periods, and the company claimed it raised wages to the limit permitted by the wage stabilization formula.

The union claims it is still due about 2.7 cents per hour in wages. It also claims plant wide seniority.

Today picketing continued. There was no disorder. Supervisory and office workers are in the plant.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 16.—(INS)—Arrest of a New Kensington bank official was expected today as a result of the discovery of a $600,000 shortage by national bank examiners.

The Mellon National Bank & Trust Co. of Pittsburgh, which operates a branch in New Kensington, will take over all deposits of the Parnassus bank through arrangements with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Depositors in the bank have been assured that they will not lose money in the transaction.

SCRANTON, PENNA.—Mrs. Frank Cerra, 929 North Washington avenue, blind since the birth of her youngest son, Joseph, 11 years ago, is shown with Joseph (left) and her daughter, Mary Ann (right) soon after her sight was restored. Mrs. Cerra visited State hospital, where Joseph is confined by illness, to see him for the first time in her life. She discovered her sight coming back last Friday after 11 years of darkness. When she left Joseph's room, all she could say through her tears was, "He's handsome, just handsome!"

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 16.—(INS)—Doctors planned today a thorough study into the case history of a 38-year-old Scranton mother whose sight suddenly and "miraculously" returned after 11 years of blindness.

Chairman Makes

House Opens Debate

By SAM FOGG
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Rep. Richards (D) S. C., appealed to the House today to shun any further cuts in the foreign aid program and said that assistance is urgently needed "to blunt the sharp sword of communist subversion."

The chairman of the House foreign affairs committee made the appeal as the House opened debate on his bill which authorizes a $7,848,750,000 program to arm and aid the free world.

Richard's committee has already pared more than 651 million dollars from the 8.5 billion dollars requested by President Truman, and a Republican move to cut still deeper is being mapped.

The South Carolina legislator warned of Soviet designs but said he does not believe World War III is inevitable. In urging adoption of his bill, he said:

"No one here questions the openly aggressive design of Soviet imperialism. We know full well that unless the free world can overpower the masters of the Kremlin with the mass of its strength—in weapons, in morale, and in the vigor of its productive economic institutions—we stand like a shorn Sampson, unable to resist effectively the forces against us."

Ex-Sergeant Confesses,
Says His Lieutenant
Ordered The Murder

By DARRELL GARWOOD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Machinery was in motion today to bring to trial in Italy two former U. S. Army men named by the Defense Department as the wartime murderers of their commanding officer during a daring mission behind German lines in 1944.

Victim of the fantastic cloak-and-dagger slaying was Major William V. Holohan of New York, an officer in the Office of Strategic Services. The Defense Department said he was slain in a plot to gain control of the small fortune he carried and to get more arms for communist partisans.

Ex-Sergeant Confesses
The Army declared that an ex-sergeant has confessed his part in the murder of Holohan, claiming that he was ordered to commit the slaying by a lieutenant.

The U. S. State Department, which called the Italian government's attention to the case yesterday, is known to have a complete file on the Holohan murder. The file presumably has been made available to the Justice Department.

Holohan, a 40-year-old lawyer with a brilliant civilian record, was poisoned and shot twice behind the German lines in northern Italy, according to the Defense Department announcement.

Development of the facts in the case came after the victim's brother refused to believe the first U. S. Army version of the major's death and demanded a new and exhaustive probe.

Hushed groups of men and women who admired their fellow San Franciscoan's vigorous and patriotic career came today to the Cathedral atop Nob Hill where the publisher lay in state, a few blocks from the scene of his birth on April 29, 1863.

Formal Conference
Suspended While
Buffer Group Meets

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, L. N. S.)

UN BASE NEAR KAESONG, Aug. 16.—The Korea armistice conference set up a streamlined subcommittee today to "meet around rather than across a table" in an effort to crack the stubborn buffer zone deadlock.

The eight-man committee, including two delegates from each side plus staff members and translators, will hold its first meeting at 11 o'clock Friday morning (9 p.m. Thursday EDT), in what an Allied spokesman termed an "almost cozy" atmosphere.

Suspend Conference
While it seeks to end the stalemate which has kept the Kaesong parley motionless for 16 sessions, the formal conference itself will be suspended until it is summoned to meet again by mutual consent.

Waning hopes of ending the costly Korean War were revived Thursday when the Communists accepted a United Nations proposal for creation of the subcommittee. It was the first agreement produced by the Kaesong talks since an agenda was adopted in mid-July.

The Allied spokesman, Air Force Brig. Gen. William F. Nuckols, stressed that the subcommittee will work as informally as possible. The committeemen will engage in give and take, off the record dialogue. (Continued on Page Two)

School Board To Sell Lots

Approves Payment Of $45,957 Bills

New Castle school board approved payment of bills totalling $45,957.06, including approximately $26,000 for text books, at the board's regular monthly meeting Wednesday night.

The board also approved budget statements, statement of operations, financial statements, treasurer's report, report of the treasurer of the athletic fund and report of cash receipts and expenditures for the month ending July 31.

The annual audit report submitted by the city controller, with verification of accounts, was accepted by the board.

Other business conducted at the meeting included the decision to ask bids for the lots owned by the school district near the Jameson Memorial hospital. The committee of Buildings and Grounds recommended the sale, after it was found the hospital did not want the land.

Bids received for repair work at George Washington junior high school were rejected in the belief that they were unreasonable. Bids will be asked again.

Stewart Re-Elected

Robert Stewart was re-elected school attendance and police officer for the year, with the stipulation that $450 of his salary will come from the athletic fund as in the past.

Publishers Subscription Service was awarded the contract for magazine subscriptions for the school year at $275.12.

A letter from the New Castle branch of the PSEA concerning recommendations for changes in hours for elementary pupils, was voted to be returned to the PSEA, with the recommendation that they approach the matter through the superintendent.

Six full time women janitors were put on a salary basis, instead of the present hourly rate. This makes it simpler for retirement details, etc.

The building program of the school system was discussed at length but no decision was made.

fire which followed "looks like its pretty wide-spread," in the plant's south field section.

Two hours after the initial blast shattered windows three miles away, Cotten said the fire was still confined to the naphtha plant—series of storage and processing tanks, interconnected.

The blast demolished and burned eight freight cars which were being switched in the area.

Five storage tanks of the naphtha plant system—15,000 and 20,000 gallon capacities—were ablaze.

All available fire-fighters joined the battle to keep the flames and terrific heat from setting off huge 10,000 barrel storage tanks, of which there are hundreds spread over a large area in the southern section of the refinery.

Mrs. Cerra, an attractive brunette, alternately hugged and stared at her son, Joseph, 11, during whose birth she was stricken with an optic hemorrhage.

"He's handsome," she crooned, "he's just handsome."

"They all are," she added, joyfully looking at her husband, Frank and their two other children, Francis, 14, and Mary Ann, 13.

Then to her husband, "she said smilingly:

"You've gotten fat since I last saw you."

Relatives and neighbors streamed into the house when the news of the "miraculous" restoration was made public yesterday.

"How do I look," many of them inquired. "Have I changed much in 11 years?"

The restoration of vision took place suddenly and unexpectedly on Monday while Mrs. Cerra was visiting the office of Dr. Alexander Munchak.

"As I sat there," she related, happily "my vision began to return and I said to the doctor, 'I think I can see a little.'"

"I could see a scale in back of his chair and pointed it out to him. Then I saw his class picture on the wall."

Overjoyed

Mrs. Cerra could hardly restrain herself when she got home and her family's joy knew no bounds when she broke the news.

"I never stopped praying," Mrs. Cerra said. "My prayers have been answered. When I first began seeing things I didn't believe it. Now I just want to stay awake all the time."

The family took her on an automobile trip to the Pocono mountains yesterday to see the trees, and see the landscapes, and see the leaves and see the flowers... and just everything that I can see."

'Mastermind'

SHOWN leaving one of the cease-fire meetings in a jeep in Kaesong, Korea, Chinese armistice delegate Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, "mystery man" who reportedly masterminded the Red cease-fire strategy, is identified by a former aide de camp as the man who masterminded the kidnapping of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek 15 years ago. He also was called one of the top men of the Chinese Communist party secret police. (International) still in the city, hiding out somewhere with a shotgun he took from the slain guard.

Officers were armed with machine guns and warned that Williams is "too desperate to be taken alive."

Investigation into the escape was featured by an argument between Sheriff John Babb and first assistant.

Breen, who is conducting one probe, charged there was "gross negligence and laxity" at the jail. Babb, who is leading a parallel investigation, blamed the escape on the "cheesebox" construction of the jail.

Powerfully Built Negro
Breen, who said he will seek grand jury indictments "if we find ground for criminal prosecution," charged that no periodic search was made of the cells in the death tier—occupied by "12 of the toughest men in the United States."

The fugitive, a six-foot, two-inch, powerfully built negro, was sentenced Aug. 20 for the purse-snatch slaying of Mrs. Mary Scott, a 43-year-old negro housewife.

He was captured last Dec. 11 after shooting and wounding two policemen in a futile attempt to escape a trap. Williams later confessed a rape.

difficulty was experienced earlier this summer with the clock when the hands were changed from Standard to Daylight time. A new part for the clock remedied this situation.

Annual appearance of numerous Canadian coins in the local district, indicates that many a resident is returning from Canadian vacation trips. Many stores will not accept the coins. Pennies and nickles seem to be the most prevalent in the change arriving here.

Numerous local residents have discovered an excellent way to keep their empty tin can supply from accumulating so quickly. If both ends of the cans are taken out after use, the can easily flattens and more cans can be placed in rear yard containers before hauling away is necessary. It takes a little more time but it pays in the long run.

Fire trucks of every shape, sort and description were moving through the city today en route to Farrell to participate in the giant jubilee parade which will take place. Tarentum and other Western Pennsylvania towns were among those represented. Lady members of the department's auxiliary were among the riders in the truck.

TREATY RULES JAPS MUST PAY REPARATIONS

Japan simply cannot maintain an economy if it makes complete restitutions.

He said the Philippines is "not fully satisfied with the reparations clause, but as a practical matter recognizes that reparations through such a program are the only kind she can get."

The final treaty terms require Japan to recognize the disposition of Japanese property in Korea.

No changes were proposed in the final terms regarding Japan's right to enter into agreements with other countries for retention of foreign troops to protect her homeland. India reportedly has objected to this.

Asked if he expected Russia's acceptance of an invitation to San Francisco to prolong the peace conference, Dulles said "we have not altered the September 8 target date for the actual signing."

Many Shun Trouble
Western authorities said the invasion might have been "far graver" had not large numbers of the youthful Reds refused to participate. One report said that more than 400 of the delegates—mostly from Britain, France, Italy and Switzerland—not only refused to join the march but walked out on the entire festival.

One particular serious incident occurred when Communist youths kidnapped a West sector man, then took refuge behind East sector police. Nevertheless, a determined band of West Berliners stormed across the boundary line and released the Communist's victim.

Another counter-attack, this one by West sector police, brought about the rescue of one of their comrades who had been dragged across the border and beaten by East Berlin police.

TANTALIZING GLIMPSES

With the air of a nervous housewife interviewing a canvasser through a barely open door, the Atomic Energy Commission gives the public a semi-annual peep at its work. The average citizen must wish that the state of the world and the shrewdness of the potential enemy did not make it necessary to give the public only tantalizing glimpses of the work of taming nature's mightiest force.

AEC's report to Congress on developments of the last six months lists more than $1,500,000,000 spent for construction and equipment. This will provide a "very large expansion" of atomic production, already at a new high. A plant near Cincinnati will soon be built for the manufacture of the first atomic plane motor, the "feasibility" of atomic-powered flight having been established in theory.

At Arco, Ida., is being assembled the first atomic plant for the production of electric power. Buildings needed in constructing the first atomic submarine motor have been completed at Arco. Substantial quantities of the stuff from which hydrogen bombs are made have been produced. Progress in research has been substantial.

These, briefly stated, are the principal disclosures in the AEC report. The reader can safely assume that there is more of substantial accomplishment that cannot be disclosed. But this much reflects progress.

Perhaps the most notable feature of the report is the confident tone in which it discusses applications of nuclear fission to power production and to airplane and submarine propulsion. With ever-increasing demands upon the nation's petroleum reserves, and with major supplies from other parts of the world subject to Soviet embracement, the atomic substitute cannot be made available too soon.

G. W., 'NAVAL OFFICER'

Sulgrave Manor in Northamptonshire, English home of the ancestors of George Washington, has a new and valued acquisition. To this structure, both museum and shrine in the land Washington fought so long and successfully, has been presented an oil painting of the first president by Archibald Robertson, who was sent overseas in 1781 to do it and completed the task in the third year of Washington's first administration, when the chief executive was 60.

It is ironical that the artist should have painted his distinguished subject in what passed, in England at least, as the uniform of a naval officer. For the average American knows the Father of His Country as surveyor, planter, Army officer and commanding general, and associates him with only one exploit by water, the crossing of the Delaware to take Trenton from the British.

The identity of the portrait was forgotten, and in the gallery of Lord Buchan in Scotland, whose ancestor, the 11th earl of that name, asked Washington to permit Robertson to paint him, it was catalogued merely as "A Naval Officer." It was 147 years after it was painted that an officer of the Scottish National Portrait Gallery discovered in 1939 that the "naval officer" was Washington.

They did things differently in those days. Ladies of the court were painted as goddesses, and royalty was highly idealized in pictures. Washington in this portrait was represented as younger than he actually was. Why the naval uniform, if it was that, may always remain a mystery.

TREND FROM THE CITIES

New York, largest city in the nation and the second largest in the world, is shocked by the realization that it must place its hope of population gains solely on its birth rate. More people are moving out of the metropolis to suburban areas than are moving in, it is revealed by a population survey by the city planning commission. What is true of New York is true of most large cities in the United States.

From 1940 to 1950 New York's overall gain was 445,000, the lowest of any decade in 60 years. In those 10 years 135,000 more people left New York than moved in. The net gain is accounted for by 580,000 births. What is happening, says the planning commission's report, is due to "a searching for a kind of residential environment which is becoming less available in the city itself."

New York's growth for the period was greater than the total population of Kansas City, but the day of the great influx of outside population from Europe and from the rest of the United States appears definitely over.

A BUREAUCRAT IN EVERY BLOCK

Recently published Census Bureau reports reveal there are 6½ million people on government payrolls throughout the nation, each receiving an average salary of $3,000 per year!

If the families of these federal, state and local government civilian employees were distributed evenly throughout the residential areas of the United States, there would be at least one in every block!

In a typical residential block, $400 of the average taxes of eight families would go to help pay the salary of the government worker living in the ninth house in the block.

This is the picture of American government, once conceived to help citizens to be free and productive, grown into sprawling, burdensome, dependent and largely non-productive bureaucracy.

Iranian Premier Wily

The British, who are hoping to salvage something from their billion-dollar oil industry in Iran, are dealing with a shrewd negotiator, Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadeq.

Mossadeq already has wrung major concessions from the British, who have agreed to the principle of Iranian nationalization of the big industry built up through the decades with British capital.

Sick Man

Mossadeq is a sick man, but some of his fainting spells in parliament in his long battle with the British and some of his own hot-headed countrymen, appear to have been of political origin.

For instance, there was that time May 13 when Mossadeq fainted at the end of a parliamentary speech, then took barricaded refuge from alleged assassins.

This faint distracted much attention from his political strategy, which was to ram through parliament his desire for an oil nationalization bill.

The premier claimed his life was threatened by pro-British Iranians and also pro-Soviet Tudeh party members. And the conservative Iranians capitulated.

Parliament members who feared risking a showdown with the British, or doubted the wisdom of Iran's treaty renunciation, were quick to realize that they were more vulnerable to assassination than a top nationalist like the premier.

Born Aristocrat

There is nothing abrupt in the political principles of Mossadeq, who is 76. He early deserted the aristocracy into which he was born and became a champion of the middle and lower classes.

Mossadeq also earned an early reputation for "official honesty in office" in a land where corruption has been widespread.

He tried to dismiss hundreds of political job-holders he considered useless back in 1917 when he was under-secretary of finance—and lost his job. He became minister of finance in 1922, and lost that too, when he tried to cut expenses.

Mossadeq actively has fought since the end of World War I against what he regarded as the British "protectorate" over ancient Persia.

But he was little known to the western world until 1944, when he gained passage of a law barring Moslems from securing north Iranian oil concessions.

Less than two months ago British Ambassador Sir Francis Shephard was quoted as saying there was no chance of Britain negotiating the bitter dispute "so long as Mossadeq's government is in power."

Yet today the British official mission headed by Lord Privy Seal Richard Stokes is negotiating with Mossadeq.

EXCUSES

I can think of a hundred excuses for failing to do what I should. They may ease for a moment my conscience, but never is one of them good.

I may say at the time I'm too busy that little bit extra to do. And others perhaps may believe me, but I know what I've said was untrue.

I've often an alibi ready. "I wanted to do that," I'll say. "And I wish now I had. But I didn't. I hadn't a minute to spare."

Of the many excuses I offer for failing to stop for a call. That falsehood: "I hadn't a minute," is surely the poorest of all.

I am glib with my reasons for failure. Myself I am quick to acquit. Deliberate neglect of my duty I never will freely admit. I can think of a hundred excuses, the old ones and sometimes a new.

They may sound like the truth when I cite them, but never is one of them true.

Carmel Myers, actress of the silver screen, was born in San Francisco, Calif., and educated in the public schools of Los Angeles. She entered pictures in 1917 and has an impressive list of pictures to her credit: Ben Hur, Magic Skin, Beau Brummel, Four Walls, Girl From Rio, Adrienne Lecouvreur, Badges, The Careless Girl, The Ghost Talks, The Red Sword, Broadway Scandals, The Ship From Shanghai, etc. She was a popular beauty and star of those days and now has her own television program.

Emperor Franz Joseph was born on Aug. 18, 1830, in Austria. He succeeded his uncle on the throne of Austria. He subdued an Hungarian revolt, finally becoming king to take away the liberties of the people, rigorously suppressing the various nationalities in an effort to fuse them together. Later he adopted a more conciliatory policy to these nationalities. His attack on Serbia in 1914, after the assassination of his nephew, Archduke Francis of Austria and his wife in Sarajevo, Bosnia, precipitated World War I. His son, Rudolph, committed suicide, and he died on Nov. 21, 1916.

From Me To You

By MESEBALL

Been out pulling weeds again . . . really hate to disturb their peace but they have gotten too big for their boots . . . Spread all over the place and while some have a rather beautiful flower, they seem to take it for granted that they can just take over the place . . . and when that happens, they get our usual quiet manner in an up-roar.

For several weeks we didn't go all out to eliminate the rag weed. He stood there waving in the breeze, and when the lawn mower whizzed past, he didn't bow down like the black platanus . . . he stood his ground and took the cutting like a Jersey Joe . . . But he kept getting stronger and stronger, and each time he challenged the mower with a little more "stuff" . . . so we had a little talk with the gas engine that makes the blades go 'round . . . With a little priming with No. 20 oil we found that he was sick and tired of the whole thing. He broke right down and said that either the weeds get "pulled out" or we start pushing. That did it . . . anyhow the "little woman" complained away into the night about the sights of mister rag weed.

But there is always a bright spot in every garden and lawn . . . and ours this summer has been a few tomato plants. Ordered 12 from the green house . . . but that didn't faze 'em . . . they sent 26. That is what we planted . . . have 'em well trained too . . . taller than we are. Seven foot if they are an inch. Tomatoes? Well, we have some mighty nice green ones . . . that is we did have some green ones . . . seems like they want to get ripe now. Which means that we'll have to refrain from taking a vacation . . . must be on hand to harvest the crop . . . might be a long cold winter.

But we were talking about the bright spot . . . oh yes, besides watching the tomatoes grow we have pleasure in sitting under a tree not too far away from the tomatoes either . . . makes it pleasant to watch the growing process. Kinda convenient too . . . out-of-sight too . . . can't be seen from the kitchen. The back door squeaks a little too . . . can hear anyone coming to get help with the dishes . . . just a short dash to the tomatoes and the strips of cloth that hold 'em up. Yep, it's a bright spot in our gardening.

ANOTHER TWIG!

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Destiny In The Balance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Between now and October 1 the civilians and the soldiers responsible for planning America's military policy must try to agree on some of the most far-reaching decisions ever taken at a time when this country was at least nominally at peace. They can almost literally make or unmake the future of a free people.

The department of defense has assured the military committees of congress that by the October deadline a fairly precise plan will be ready showing how the mounting volume of strength in men and materiel will be divided in the future as between army, navy and air force. While that potent weapon of first glance fairly simple, it is in fact the root of the matter and for a variety of reasons unbelievably complicated. The problem and its complications will be considered in this and several following columns.

Inter-Service Row

An obvious complication is the inter-service with the three services competing for men and money, ridden in many instances by loyalties and traditions out of the past. Another and almost equally important complication, about which only a very few people at the highest level know anything, is the atomic weapon and how it is to be integrated into the war plan. That it has not been fully integrated means this most potent weapon and powerful resource in the American arsenal has not been given the consideration it deserves.

It does not follow that anyone has been lax or indifferent so much as it indicates the revolutionary nature of the new weapon which has already cost $7 billion. This was illustrated forcibly last week when the final evaluation of the experimental atomic blasts set off at Las Vegas, Nev., in January and February were placed before the military.

New Questions

The results of those highly secret tests indicate the possibility of still another revolution in warfare. They raise brand new questions about the size of the three forces and how each force shall be equipped. So extraordinary are these findings that thus far the military men who have studied them find it difficult to take in their full significance.

They certainly necessitate a revision of the long-term war plan. From civilians at the top there has been increasing pressure on the chiefs of staff to apply all possible imagination and ingenuity in utilizing the atomic weapon. This means, of course, breaking through traditional concepts.

One of those directly concerned in the effort is Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett. Lovett, who has been acting secretary while General George C. Marshall has been getting a rest at a vacation hideout, feels keenly on the subject.

The chief responsibility for pushing rests, however, on Robert LeBaron, chairman of the military liaison committee of the Atomic Energy Commission. As originally conceived, this post was to be held by a military man selected by the department of defense and the first chairman was Lieutenant General Lewis Brereton. The defense department decided later a civilian would be preferable and Brereton was succeeded by William Webster, a New England utilities executive, from whom LeBaron took over.

Rated Highly

He was formerly head of a science equipment company and later with Standard Oil of California. Those familiar with his work, all of which goes on behind the screen of top secrecy, rate him highly for ability and drive.

At least two valid reasons can be given why the potentialities of the atomic weapon have not been planned to the fullest. The most obvious one is the fact that until fairly recently the stuff of which the bombs are made was so limited that planning was concentrated on a few vital targets in the Soviet Union, the objective most belikely that to cripple Russia's industrial capacity. That phase is now over and there can and must be experimentation in the light of the Las Vegas findings looking to the destruction of mass armies through atomic explosions of a kind and on a scale hitherto considered impossible.

The second reason is a hesitance on the part of some military men to put too much reliance in a war plan on the new weapon. They are fearful that if the Russians should abruptly reverse their policy and agree to complete atomic inspection, as called for in the Baruch plan, the weapon might be outlawed while the Soviet would retain massive land armies. It seems, however, most unlikely that the United States would enter any agreement which did not include the outlawry of other means of waging mass warfare.

An unhappy commentary on the great decisions now being taken is that they must for the most part be made in secret. The average American can know so little about the words, the signs and the pieces of paper, that shape his destiny.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

If just a little rainfall that beats down so persistently on the coastal region of Washington and Oregon could be transferred to the bone-dry areas of lower California and Arizona not so many hundred miles to the south, it would be a wonderful deal all around.

One day you're listening to a southwestern farmer praying for any kind of shower to break a seven-month drought; the next a University of Washington professor says: "That majestic peak about 60 miles to the southeast is Mount Rainier, of course. I use it as a weather guide every morning. If I can see it when I awaken I know it's going to rain later in the day. If I can't see it I know it's raining already!" When Seattle folk can see Mt. Rainier or when Mount Hood is visible to the citizens of Portland, incidentally, the common phrase is "Oh, look: the mountain is out today."

The cause of all the rain is the Japan current, which warms the air blowing in from the Pacific. The warm air turns into rain when it collides with the formidable Cascade range.

That Bosky Dell, New York

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

Henry Thoreau would have been shocked by what I'm just getting ready to say, and so will his latter-day counterpart, Johnny Kieran, but the sounds of New York City enthrall me much more than the sounds of the country.

Thoreau, who I'm sure would have bored me to death, used to tramp around before daylight just to hear a bullfrog call across Walden Pond. He could sit by the hour watching a thrush just sit on a limb and be a thrush. Thoreau was the sort who would rather cut a log than coupons.

Kieran Too

In his way Johnny Kieran is just as bad. I have played golf with him many times and have seen him forget a beautiful brassie shot to the green when a red-eared snipperyhacker would whistle from a nearby bush. As much as he likes music, and as much as he knows about it, there never was a day when Mr. Kieran wouldn't leave Kreisler to tear through the woods to hear a sore-throated nightingale, or a bob-tailed peewee sing a high tree aria.

When I lived in small towns I did my very best to cultivate a taste for Nature's little fellows, but I never succeeded. The chirping of birds woke me up, didn't soothe me. I knew this was wrong, because I had read enough to know that a sensitive fellow should respond to such things as katydids beating their katydid legs together, the lonesome cries of the whip-poor-wills, or the sunrise bursts of song of roosters.

New York City has much more attractive sounds as far as I'm concerned than the woodlands ever produced. I waken every morning to the song of a riveting machine, and no one can ever tell me, and that goes for Thoreau and Kieran that a riveting machine doesn't make a woodpecker sound like nothing. The sharp tap-tap-tap of a woodpecker hitting an elm or a telegraph pole cannot compare with a riveting machine hitting steel. And there's no place in New York you can live where there isn't riveting somewhere near you.

Sweet Taxi Horns

I like to go to bed at night with sweet taxi horns sounding in my ear. No bird ever poured out such golden notes as the horns of taxis do when they are trying to make one more green light before the red comes on. Some of them sing bass, some sing soprano, others cry for the right of way in tenor.

No hoot owl ever screeched like tires of cars when they have to stop quickly. Nothing in the animal world gives off as rhythmic a sound as an automobile tire on a wet street. I've heard lions roar in the jungle, and an elephant herd trumpet in alarm, but such sounds are soft and gentle compared to the nightly roar of garbage cans in New York. I don't think a garbage can would ever back off from an elephant, or a lion, where sound is concerned.

And The Pigeon

I've heard the pigeons coo all around me at St. Marks in Venice, but their little coos never lifted my heart as much or made my blood run as fast as a New York traffic cop saying, "Get moving or go back to Arkansas, you dope."

In small towns flowers grow in such abundance that no one pays much attention to them, but in New York one little blossom that is fighting for its life between cracks of cement, or a tree that is fighting for its life between cracks of cement, or a tree that is determined to fulfill its destiny despite high octane gasoline fumes, makes you want to pat the little flower and hug the little tree. Game fellows both.

As I write this I hear the roar of the city and it is music to my ears. It must be music to other people's ears, too, otherwise there wouldn't be nearly nine million of us here.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDELS

"The reason some women are nervous is that they spend ten dollars' worth of energy on a ten cent task." Dr. Walter C. Alvarez of the Mayo Clinic said a few days ago.

"They shop too long to save a quarter," he told the women attending a meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs at Chautauque. "Then they come home so terribly tired that they shriek at their children and fuss at a perfectly good husband."

He also warned the ladies "to make decisions quickly and with the least effort," and that they "need to avoid needless annoyances and conflicts."

I haven't been able to check on Dr. Alvarez, but I'd like to make you a bet that he isn't married.

Or if he is, he ought to stay home a little more and watch the "needless annoyances and conflicts" a wife has to go through every day.

Just for the fun of it—my fun, that is—I watched my own wife's "needless annoyances and conflicts" today.

And I shall not here mention the greatest "annoyance and conflict" of them all—me, the husband.

I started to watch as I was getting dressed. Suddenly I let out a yell.

"Look! Button missing on the shirt!"

Off comes the shirt. Annoyance No. 1.

Button has to be sewed on.

After breakfast I go out into the garden. Everything is pretty dry. I turn on the hose to spray. A shriek comes out of the first floor window.

"Stop! Don't you see you are spraying right through the open window? Everything is soaking wet."

I sink away, first turning off the hose. Annoyance No. 2.

The laundry comes.

The wife checks it.

I hear her telephoning.

"Your man delivered the wrong laundry to me."

She is informed at the other end that he would deliver the right bundle next Tuesday. This is Friday and company is coming over the week end. We need the stuff.

I don't know what the outcome of the conversation has been—but my wife's face is red and she is shaking.

Annoyance No. 3.

Three youngsters come in from next door.

"We are Indians!" they tell us. Their faces are a mass of weird, red smears. Somehow they got hold of their mother's lipstick and painted even little Tucky's face. Tucky is just 18 months old.

Who is going to wash it off?

The one who, according to Dr. Alvarez, must "make decisions quickly and with the least effort."

In Los Angeles a fellow left his home in 1936 to get a morning paper. He isn't back yet.

So after 15 years, his wife has decided to sue for divorce. She thinks he has deserted her.

If she had had Dr. Alvarez' advice she might have come to a quicker decision.

Farmers To Give Opinions On Federal Agencies Work

By AL SPIVAK
HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—Residents of Pennsylvania rural areas will be sounded out during the next month on how good a job they feel federal agricultural agencies are doing.

Local "mobilization" committees composed of U. S. agriculture department employees will organize meetings of farmers on county levels with as many as three to be held in more populous areas.

In Tioga
The first will take place in Tioga county next week. All must be completed by September 15.

Persons attending will discuss the work of federal agencies including the federally-aided state agriculture extension service. Their complaints and suggestions will be forwarded to the U. S. agriculture department.

Approximately $8,000,000 is spent annually by the federal government to aid agriculture in Pennsylvania counting in administrative costs and the extension service.

An additional $3,000,000 is loaned at four to five per cent interest rates in Pennsylvania by the Farmers Home Administration headed by Carson F. Mertz.

Officials planning the statewide program of meetings say they would like urban dwellers to attend also. They believe bankers might be interested in credit topics and city people planning to establish themselves on farms might also find the meetings of value.

The sessions are part of a nationwide program, first of its kind to be attempted, to form a grass roots basis for future operation of federal farm agencies.

The program was touched off by U. S. agriculture secretary Charles F. Brannan's announcement that a comprehensive policy review should be conducted to determine how well farm programs are serving family farmers in the nation.

Starting Point
Undersecretary J. C. McCormick prepared a report last May to form "a starting point for the widest possible consideration and discussion by farmers and farm groups."

The state production and marketing administration committee headed by Clyde Zehner took it up from there and aided by other federal agencies planned the county-meeting program.

More efficient and effective service to the family farm is the prime consideration.

Zehner points out that family farms constitute approximately 98 per cent of the farming units in the United States.

A family farm, he says, can be defined as one providing the main source of income for farm family or members of his family make most of the managerial decisions, participate regularly in farm work and normally supply a substantial part of the labor.

This is described by Brannan as "one of the basic strengths of our democracy."

"The family farm system leads to agricultural progress and good community life," he says. "It builds in the family certain attitudes of self-reliance, social responsibility, individual initiative, tolerance and self-government."

Covered Bridge Near Fayette To Be Replaced

Lawrence county's famous covered bridges are slowly giving way to the more modern structures, although not so romantic, but capable of holding heavier traffic.

Another of these well known old wooden canopied bridges, spanning the Little Neshannock at Fayette will quietly fade into oblivion within a few months according to announcement from the Pennsylvania Department of Highways at Harrisburg.

The bridge on Legislative Route 37041 in Wilkes township, a twin to the one just dismantled by construction workers over the same creek a mile or so distant, will be replaced by a modern I-beam structure approximately 139 feet in length and 18 feet and six inches in width.

To Open Bids

Bids for the replacement of the historical structure will be received and publicly opened at Harrisburg on September 7 and a contract awarded a short time thereafter to the lowest bidder.

It is expected that by the time the work on this new bridge is started, work will be completed on the bridge nearby which is being built to replace the old one which was dismantled. Proper detours will be established when work on the second structure is started.

Just three or four state maintained covered bridges remain in Lawrence county now and these are slated to go as quickly as possible it is learned. There are other covered bridges in the county but most of these are maintained by township supervisors.

LIONS CLUB MEETS

Volant Lions met Tuesday evening in the Methodist church with a slightly different setup than is usually followed. Instead of meeting for dinner at 7:45, the group gathered at 8:00 and served light refreshments after the meeting. Warren Wilkin and James McConnell were hosts.

During the business meeting, with President Wilkin in charge, the club voted in favor of adopting the project of placing public picnic tables at intervals along the highways. This idea was submitted by Lion Silvis who has recently returned from a trip to the West. The numerous tables and benches provided in various states inspired the presenting of the plan for local consideration.

A change in location for the next club meeting was announced. Originally scheduled for a corn roast and picnic at the Hillard home, the event will be held at the Volant ball park, August 28. Walt Lesnett, P. M. Cox and James McConnell were appointed as general committee for the meeting.

It was tentatively decided to continue the 8 o'clock meetings during September, with the dinners to be resumed in October.

Rev. Henry Metcalf At Downtown Rally

Rev. Henry Metcalf, new pastor of the Edenburg Methodist church, will be the featured speaker at the New Castle Youth for Christ rally in the First Baptist church, North at East street, Saturday at 7:45 o'clock.

James James will be heard as vocal soloist and then he and James Maxwell will become an instrumental team to provide selections for the enjoyment of the group.

The local rally members are looking forward to the arrival of Rev. Jack Marshall who will be working with the youth rally starting in September.

For A Cool Summer Lunch Order A Sizzling Hot Steak

By IRWIN ALPERT
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 16.—August heat got ya? Want a cool off?

Well, forget about those "light" lettuce-and-tomato salad dishes and help yourself to a real sizzling hot steak, with potatoes—that is, if the family pocketbook can stand it.

That advice is offered by one of the country's top experts on weather and what to do about it—Yale Professor Dr. Lovic P. Herrington, research director of the John B. Pierce Foundation which studies heat, ventilation, and health.

Escapism

Dr. Herrington says the practice of eating light foods to keep from sweating is purely the invention of summer weather escapists who live in regions where it really gets hot only about a dozen times a year.

The climatologist, a native of Waynesboro, Ga., where the mercury usually hogs the 95 degree mark, asserts that the salad blue-plate may be all right for rabbits, and leisurely clubwomen bent on keeping away from the stove—but for beating the heat, he'll take his steak well done, thank you.

The Yale weather expert says the salad as a meal just doesn't provide the proteins needed for a good day's work—and that's as true December as it is in July.

Moreover, he explained, it's all in the skin, not the mind. If you eat hot, protein-rich foods, your blood circulation is better. When it gets too hot outside, the blood rushes to the vessels in the outer skin layer for a cooling-off period. You cool off in the process. Simple.

Light Clothing

Dr. Herrington's other tips: wear lightweight clothing, particularly garments with open weave and ventilated pockets. The advantage of "air-conditioned" pockets is that when you walk, air is pumped up over the legs and filters out through the pocket area. Dr. Herrington warns, however, that the pockets must be made of sufficiently tough material to prevent the loss of money or personal effects.

Another Herrington suggestion is to wear ventilated shoes with light socks. Light shades in clothing, preferably white, also helps to cheat Old Sol. A light blue, or white can reject up to as much as 50 per cent of the sun's heat.

Avoid garters—if possible—because they slow up circulation, and good circulation keeps the skin temperature down when the thermometer is going up.

And unless the sun is really out with a vengeance, don't wear a hat. It cuts down the evaporative surface of the head so that you don't perspire as well.

And perspiration, explains Dr. Herrington, is like the evaporative cooling process of an air-conditioning unit. If you perspire normally, says the professor, it should be equal to the effect of two, or even three refrigerators functioning at top level.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Give and Take

Chuckie, the five-year-old who lives across the boardwalk from us at the beach, is a live wire. The first time I saw him this season, I greeted him as "Butch." He grinned and said, "That's not my name. If you call me 'Butch,' I'll call you 'Cabbagehead.'" And so it was left.

But the next time we met, his folks were around. They didn't mind me calling him "Butch" but they were a little uneasy about the "Cabbagehead." Amused, yes, but also disapproving.

I'm sure there's nothing disrespectful in the way we talk to one another. And Chuckie is surely quite justified in coming back at me in the same vein as I greet him. If we both enjoy it, if we find it makes for a good give-and-take relationship between a five-year-old and one nearly fifty, why should there be any objections?

Too often, grownups feel it is quite acceptable for them to talk to or act toward youngsters in almost any way they choose, but they don't like a "comeback" along the same line. Perhaps we ought to be grown-up enough to take part in give and take.

Kiwanians Enjoy Corn Roast On Wednesday Eve

Instead of a noon meeting this week, the members of New Castle Kiwanis Club accepted the invitation of Kiwanian Dean E. Smith for a corn roast at his home in Neshannock township.

The way the club members went after the delicious corn, hamburgers, hot dogs, etc., indicated healthy appetites, for there was little left after the eating period had been finally called off following the serving of apple pie.

The balance of the evening was spent in sitting around digesting the meal, although a few venturesome souls did partake in a few rounds of horseshoe pitching.

FAMOUS PIANIST DIES

He is survived by his wife, two sons and a daughter.

Engineers Plan Annual Picnic At Pumping Station

Another sign this fall is just around the corner, is the announcement of the annual stag picnic of the Mahoning-Shenango Valley Engineers Society, which will take place on Saturday, August 25, at the New Castle Water Company's pumping station along the Shenango.

Activities will get under way at 2 p.m., and last on into the evening, with a delicious picnic menu planned for 6 p.m.

There will be a good program of entertainment for all, and tickets are on sale by various members in the area served by the organization, which will end on Thursday, August 23.

Jap Physician Claims Isolation Of Cancer Virus

TOKYO, Aug. 16.—(INS)—A Japanese physician claimed today to have isolated what he called a human "cancer virus" and asserted that the disease can be diagnosed in its early stages by a reaction test.

Dr. Kikichi Hasumi said he first discovered what he described as the cause of cancer through an electronic microscope in February, 1947.

Hasumi's exposition of his virus theory of cancer is now being taken to the United States by Setsuo Yamada, a member of the Japanese house of councillors, for publication in the journal of the American Medical Association.

Yamada left Tokyo by air Wednesday.

Cows have been known to give milk from the age of two to 18 years.

"And That's Col. Earl H. Blaik!"

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—You can lower the editorial boom on a football coach who feels the West Point honor system has failed his squad, and not vice versa.

And that's Col. Earl H. (Red) Blaik, head coach at the United States Military Academy.

But what can you do about a heart-broken father, tense and overwrought because his son is caught in the debacle and faces dismissal?

And that's Col. Blaik, too.

He was both these unhappy men rolled into one when he drove down to New York from the Point a few days ago in the capacity of special pleader to give a luncheon for some 30 hand-picked, personal friends, all of whom turned out to be the town's most lustrous sports writers and editors.

Greeted By Sizeable Mob
When Col. Blaik arrived 45 minutes late for his own luncheon party at Leone's, a west side coffee house popular with the sports fraternity, he was greeted by a sizeable mob assembled in front of the restaurant.

The crowd consisted largely of newsmen and still photographers and newsmen who were refused admittance to the premises since they did not qualify as personal friends of the coach. All had been dispatched to Leone's by city editors who were laboring under the impression that West Point is not a private club and that its football coach was holding a news conference.

Grantland Rice arrived, was recognized as an intimate friend and admitted into the restaurant. Like-wise Dan Parker, Joe Williams, Red Smith, Bob Considine, Red Barber, Tom Meany and other luminaries of the stadium press boxes.

This didn't make the garden variety working press, warming its flat feet on the hot sidewalk, any happier. One reporter put in a call to the Pentagon. The army's top pro squawked, said he could not prevent the colonel from entertaining his personal friends at luncheon but would try to prevail upon him to open up the news conference to all reporters.

"Highly Emotional State"

"The Pentagon says the coach is in a 'highly emotional state,'" the newsmen, back on the sidewalk, warning his feet, reported.

And when Col. Blaik arrived a few moments later, his looks more than confirmed the Pentagon description. A big man, he bulled his way through the crowd, looking neither to right nor to left.

"He hasn't slept in two weeks," Col. O. C. Krueger, retiring graduate manager of athletics at West Point, snapped as he and the coach disappeared into Leone's. "Red's had an awful time."

Eventually Col. Blaik reappeared, hours later, to spend a few moments with reporters assigned to this story.

The coach looked exhausted physically and emotionally. He had little to say to the extraneous reporters except that "in all fairness, I feel any discharge of these men less than an honorable discharge will be a gross injustice."

Penalty For Cheating?

"Don't you believe there should be any penalty for cheating?" one reporter asked.

Evidently his friends from the sports departments had asked no embarrassing questions. The coach turned angrily on this reporter and cried: "I didn't say that!"

"Well, don't you?" the reporter asked again.

"They're leaving, isn't that enough?" the distraught man cried.

"My every effort will be to see that these boys leave with the same untarnished reputation as they had prior to entering the academy," Col. Blaik added emphatically. "I

The reporters put away their pencils and said good-bay.

2. Possibilities of an improved farmers' market for New Castle and Lawrence county. Special sub-committee members are John S. Riley, Michael C. Palmer and Joseph Gilmore.
3. Better control of coal stripping throughout Lawrence county. Representative Robert White, II, plans to be present with the touring group and will have important information available on a state-wide basis.

Ex-Queen Looks For Cook's Job

PARIS, (INS) — A 74-year-old widow, who was once the Queen of Egypt, is now looking for a job as a cook.

She's Princess Dayan Djavidan, born in Philadelphia, the youngest daughter of an Austrian royal family. Her mother was Vetter De Lys, a close relative of the royal Bourbons.

For 69 years of her life, she lived in the upper crust of international society. For 17 of these years, she was the wife of the ruler of Egypt, Khedive Abbas Hilmi.

Now she's widowed and broke, living in a dollar-a-day hotel room in Paris. She spends her time reading the "help wanted" columns, and waiting for answers to her ad for a job as cook, housekeeper or maid. The ex-queen dresses simply but in good taste and looks only about 50 years old. She says she learned to cook as a hobby—specializing in the Turkish dishes her husband loved.

The former royal couple lived in the capitals of Europe until the king's death in 1946. Some time later, the widow found herself broke. A close friend of hers suggested the princess move to Paris to get a job.

New Auto Grease Has Sand As Base

WILMINGTON, Del. (INS) — Motorists don't make a practice of putting sand in their bearings, but the strange quirks of science may change all that.

Chemists at the DuPont company are working on a new grease which uses sand as a base. The base, used to thicken oil in making grease, bears little resemblance to the seashore variety grains after the chemists get through with it, but it is of the same origin.

This sand-derived material is called GS-199S silica.

Unlike the actual sand from which it is derived, it takes on a new molecular composition in the form of tiny balls less than a millionth of an inch in diameter.

The minuteness is illustrated by the fact that when magnified 25,000 times, they are still scarcely larger than pin points.

The powdery substance is so light and fluffy that it appears like a liquid. However, it is opposed to water, and actually floats on the top of water without becoming wet.

It readily mixes with oil, though for making grease.

Ordinary greases are made with soap as the thickening agent, but such soaps become thin at high temperatures and this may result in increased wear on bearing surfaces and the leaking of lubricant.

However, the greases thickened with this new silica retain their consistency despite high temperatures.

SOAP IN EYES
NEW YORK—Dorothy Sandlin, blonde star of operetta, radio and television, says soap won't get in your eyes when you shampoo your hair if you rub a little vaseline or cold cream on your forehead.

DAY'S DURATION

Get The Birds, Make Money

HARRISBURG, Pa. — (INS) — Two school teachers put their heads and their hearts together and decided to practice what they were preaching.

Today, five years later, it's apparent they knew their studies well because they are operating one of the biggest broiler businesses in the Harrisburg area.

It all started when Eugene Schlosnagle met the former Ethel Smeltzer in the home economics department of the high school at Accident, Md.

Schlosnagle was the agriculture teacher in the school, and after they were married, he figured he could make more money out of putting his knowledge to work for him, rather than teaching it to others.

So they bought a run down farm of 60 acres in Cumberland county which had a huge chicken house as its principal building.

They remodeled it for broilers, and in a little over two years, they have produced and sold 80,000 meat birds, each averaging 3 1/2 pounds of meat.

Schlosnagle also developed various sidelines. When he found that the soil was too poor to grow his own feed, he turned to grassland farming and converted all of the fields. Then he brought some steers in to graze for marketing himself, and rented out other pastures as dairy lands.

Donaldson Is Named To Post

Appointed Acting County Solicitor

Former District Attorney Leroy K. Donaldson was named Acting County Solicitor by the Board of County Commissioners at their meeting, Tuesday, to serve during the absence of County Solicitor William McElwee, Jr.

Attorney McElwee is seriously ill in the Jameson Memorial hospital, and it became imperative to name someone to take care of the job until Mr. McElwee recovers from his illness. Attorney Donaldson was thus named to the job during the emergency.

DRAW FOR TIED CANDIDATES

In the absence of candidates, whose names were written in for various county elective jobs, such as auditor, school directors, justices of the peace, etc., the county commissioners drew for position where a tie existed.

Apparently there is not too much interest in some of these jobs. In Washington county, four men received one vote each for justice of the peace. They were Gibson Mart, Samuel McGary, Gus Peters, and Grover Stevenson.

There were 34 offices on the Democratic ticket where ties existed, and for whom the commissioners drew for position on the ballot at the November election. Not so many existed on the Republican ticket.

DIVORCES GRANTED

Eight more decrees in divorce were handed down by the county court, being granted by President Judge W. Walter Braham.

They were as follows:
Bertha F. Emery vs. Charles Smith Emery, cruel and barbarous treatment.

Ignacy Duzyk vs. Mary Duzyk, indignities and desertion.

Alice G. Sankey vs. Leslie P. Sankey, indignities.

Emma M. Gallagher vs. Warren L. Gallagher, indignities.

Hazel E. Ramsey vs. Arthur James Ramsey, cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities.

Ruth C. Cannon vs. Kenneth E. Cannon, indignities.

Mary P. King vs. Norman W. King, indignities.

Sara Louise Walker vs. Samuel C. Walker, indignities.

FILE EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Candidates who ran for office at the recent primary election are a little slow in filing their expense accounts it has been found. So far, less than half a dozen have complied with the law in this respect. Those whose expense was over $150 must file a detailed statement. Those whose expense was less than this figure need only to make affidavit to this fact.

In The Open

I spent a sultry, lazy August afternoon in the depths of the remote ravine known locally as Polecat Hollow. There are supposed to be some copperheads among the rocks in this little-traveled and sparsely populated area. Hoping to meet up with one of these stubby snakes, I parked in an abandoned quarry half-way down the narrow roadway which traces the hollow, changed to hiking clothes and moved around until the day was far spent. As usual I came across no copperhead, nor did I see one of the perfumed critters which has given this back-country valley its suggestive name.

There was no breath of air to cool the afternoon's fevered brow, and the sun-warmed ledges in that old quarry threw back the scorching heat with interest. As I perspired my way out of city garb and into comfortable trail clothes a lone crow came over to check on my intentions. "Hot!" he said, "Hot! Hot!" and steered for a far hilltop.

The little lobelia known as Indian tobacco was blooming in the open edgings. The animals know enough to let this acrid plant alone, but in the days of the herb doctors a quack medicine was made from it which set the patient's intestinal organism on fire. The red man chewed and smoked these bitter leaves, enjoying the narcotic drowsiness which followed.

A whole entourage of sulphur butterflies had found intoxicating tipples of some sort at a single spot in the roadway. There were perhaps two-score of these fellows eagerly crowding the bar. I found myself wading in a sea of fluttering wings, as they refused to leave the spot and simply flew up long enough for me to pass by.

The shady glen has attracted many of the native ferns. From the roadway I saw the narrow-leaved spleenwort, the maiden-hair, the hay-scented, the leather-woodfern and the common Christmas fern. There are probably several others back among the rocks, but their mosquito patrols were alerted to go aloft at the first alarm and I elected to stay out in the sunshine of the open roadway.

A mile or so down the dusty roadway brought me to a plank bridge. Here I reversed course, wading back up the hollow through the talking brook which spills across wide ledge rock. There were striped dace and shiners in the pools and the black-wing damselflies were making merry in the sunlight. The emeralds were especially attractive, their metallic green bodies gleaming as they posed on their water weed landing platforms.

Touch-me-nots, both the pale yellow and the orange spotted varieties, were in full flower along the brookside. A tiny bumblebee was blundering around in the yellow blooms, and as I watched her a ruby-throated buzz bomb came skidding along to collect his toll from the nectar pots of the orange-spotted jewelweed. The hummingbird hung in the air with his tiny wings going so fast all I could see was a blur. While I was reposing grandly in the shade, watching a water snake patrol a larger pool, I could hear conversation approaching along the roadway. Soon a woodchuck hunter came in sight, accompanied by a small boy acting as gun bearer. They reported capturing a young bird "with a long bill" and leaving him trussed up among the rocks by the plank bridge below. With the expectation of finding a young green heron or kingfisher I hot-footed back down the road, but could find the bird nowhere. It had probably broken its bonds and escaped. As I was poking around by the bridge two shots announced the demise of an unwary whistler. This turned out to be a young hog, which had met sudden death while following its give-away trail along the bank above the roadway.

We talked for some time, touching on herbal remedies. My new friend, the hunter, was enthusiastic in his support of boneset tea as an effective agent in "sweating out" a cold. He was also a firm believer in the efficacy of crushed touch-me-not, or waterweed, as a lotion to halt the itching of poison ivy exposure.

The sun had nearly completed his stint for the day when I pulled up and out of the hidden hollow, striking the hard surfaced roadway which led homeward. A flight of swallows moved across the evening sky, one more evidence of the advancing season.

Scattered Showers May Break Heat

Today is going to be another scorcher. The weatherman says mercury readings will reach 85 or 90 in the north and 90 to 95 in the south portion. Scattered showers may fall from rather cloudy skies.

A little relief may be in sight in the forecast of a low of 55 to 60 tonight and fair and not as warm tomorrow.

PRICE OF TREASON

Small Business Sees How To Get Sub-Contracts

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Small business and industry in the Pittsburgh district are getting their chance to obtain war contracts to help speed the building of the nation's armed might.

An armed forces small business clinic, which began in Pittsburgh yesterday and continues through Friday, includes a display in the William Penn Hotel of war material being produced by large concerns which have been awarded Army, Navy and Air Force contracts.

These "prime" contractors need help in producing the weapons and equipment ordered, and the clinic is expected to spread sub-contracts among small producers of material.

The Scaife Co., of Oakmont, Pa., has on display the parts of a mortar shell. Scaife makes only the shell body and wants to let sub-contractors to produce various parts.

Westinghouse Electric makes gear boxes for Air Force bomb sights, guns and computers. The company wants someone to help make the tiny, high-precision gears.

The Skinner Engine Co. of Erie wants a sub-contractor to machine steel castings.

These and other firms with defense orders hope to get help through the clinic, which is sponsored jointly by the armed forces, the National Production Authority, and the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

Tribute to Caesar.

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."—Luke 20:25.

Scripture—Luke 20:19-26; Acts 22:22-29; 23:23-27; Romans 13:1-7; 1 Peter 13:17.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

The matter of tax payments and honesty in all our business, including our governmental relations, is a most timely one. Tax evasions and immorality in high places is constantly being brought to our notice through investigations and stories in our newspapers.

It was also a problem in Jesus' day. The Jewish people bitterly resented the tax that their master, Rome, imposed. Bitterness had been growing against the tax, and when the episode occurred which Luke relates in our lesson today, hatred for this new gospel which Jesus preached also reached a high pitch.

The event occurred on Tuesday of Holy Week. The authorities of the temple and the orthodox Jewish leaders were determined to find some excuse for taking Jesus into custody and having Him killed. They feared the people, however, so instead of going to Him themselves, they sent spies, who "feigned to be just men," to try to catch Him in a statement that would give them an excuse to seize Him.

These spies approached the Master and began to question Him in most flattering words: "Master, we know that Thou sayest and teachest rightly, neither acceptest Thou the person of any, but teachest the way of God truly: Is it lawful for us to give tribute unto Caesar, or not?"

Jesus knew them for the hypocrites they were, and asked them why they tempted Him. Then He asked to be shown a Roman coin, and when it was shown Him he pointed to it and asked: "Whose image and superscription hath it?" "Caesar's," they answered.

Jesus said, "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

That completely baffled them and they said no more. Possibly those who overheard, learned a lesson, too. It may have made them less resentful toward Rome and the tax. The coins were Caesar's, and the Jews were under the protection as well as the rule of Rome. We, too, accept all the benefits of our government, but are apt to squirm when our taxes are due and feel abused to have to pay them.

Near the end of Paul's third missionary journey, he desired to go to Jerusalem. His friends warned him that it would be dangerous for him to enter the city, but he insisted.

Now, Paul, having been a member of the Pharisee party and a Hebrew, was permitted to enter the temple at any time. He had, however, aroused the bitter hatred of the Jews because he preached to Gentiles. They were determined to put him to death.

Some thought, wrongfully, that Paul, in entering the temple at this time, had taken with him some Gentiles. They listened to what he had to say, but then they cried out, "Away with such a fellow from the earth; for it is not fit that he should live."

Fearing Paul would be killed, as the crowd milled around, the Roman captain who had been viewing the scene of mob violence from a tower overlooking the temple courts, sent his soldiers to rescue Paul and take him to the castle, where the captain would have him beaten to find out what criminal action of his had caused the riot.

Paul was bound and about to be scourged when he spoke to the centurion who stood by. "Is it lawful for you to scourge a man that is a Roman, and undisciplined?"

The centurion immediately went to the chief captain, and told him: "Take heed what thou doest; for this man is a Roman."

The chief captain asked Paul if he indeed was a Roman, and Paul answering yea, the chief captain said, "With a great sum obtained I this freedom (he had been a slave). Paul answered, 'But I was born free.' Those who would have examined Paul then departed because they were afraid.

Next day the temple authorities were summoned to appear before the Roman tribunal and state their case against Paul. At this time a great dissension broke out among the Jews themselves, one group wanting to set Paul free and another desiring to slay him. Again he was rescued by the Roman soldiers and kept in custody for his own safety.

A plot was on foot to kill Paul, however, the moment he should be freed, but a young man—Paul's sister's son—told Paul of the plot, and Paul told the centurion, who took the young man to the chief captain, and that officer decided to send Paul to be tried at Caesarea, heavily guarded by Roman soldiers.

You see, whatever hardships the Romans imposed upon their captive people, their laws were just.

Paul later wrote to the Romans: "Rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same."

Peter wrote: "For so is the will of God, that with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men: as free, and not using your liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of God. Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God."

To "silence the ignorance of foolish men," and not to use the liberty we have in our country "for a cloak of maliciousness," is indeed a necessary warning to-day.

FARM BUYING POWER DROPS 3 PER CENT

Farm prices are still "skidding downhill." A drop of 2.3 per cent from mid-June to mid-July made July the fifth month in a row in which farm prices declined.

As in June, lower prices were paid to farmers for cotton, meat animals, oil-bean crops, peaches and oranges. Slight increases were made in milk, eggs, most vegetables, grapefruit and apples.

While prices paid to farmers dropped, farm production costs remained at their former levels. This caused the buying power of the farmer's dollar to drop nearly three per cent.

MEAT CONSUMPTION AT AVERAGE LEVEL

How much meat does the average American eat? Today's meat prices could prompt the answer: "Not very much."

Actually, we are eating about as much meat today as we have in any year since the first World War. During the past three years, the average person ate 144 pounds of meat per year. Prospects for this year are that we will average about 146 pounds per person.

In 1950 we ate, on the average, 63 pounds of beef, 8 pounds of veal, 4 pounds of lamb and mutton, and 69 pounds of pork. This year we are eating somewhat more pork per person, with about the same amount of beef but less veal, lamb and mutton.

CANNING JARS FOR FREEZING FOODS

Shortages of some freezer packaging materials make it necessary to look for substitutes. Many homemakers have used glass canning jars successfully for freezing foods. Glass jars make airtight moisture-proof containers.

In using glass jars, however, one must observe certain precautions. Glass jars are slippery to handle and very brittle when cold. The glass breaks easily when cold so care in handling and stacking is very important. Leave ample head-space to allow for expansion of foods during freezing. Allow an inch of headspace for liquids; one-half-inch for fruits covered with syrup. Dry packs can be filled almost to top of jar.

Canning jars are especially good for fruits as these may be thawed in the container. Because vegetables have better quality if cooked while still frozen, it is advisable to use only wide mouth jars. These can be emptied without completely thawing the food.

Also use wide mouth jars for soups, stews, chicken a la king, small whole fish, or fish steaks. Do not use jars with small cracks. Such jars may break easily and your efforts and food are lost. Wash all jars in hot soapy water and rinse in hot water. Cool before putting in food which is properly chilled. Seal lids in boiling water. Be sure lids are airtight and always use a rubber ring with zinc tops.

PRESS AS YOU SEW

It is important to press carefully as you sew, especially when you work on wool or rayon fabrics. Press each seam when it is finished so it will be smooth and flat before joining to another part. Plan your work so you can stitch as many seams as possible at one time, then press them. This will save time.

HINTS FOR MAKING SCHOOL DRESSES

Though school days are approaching fast, you still have time to make one or more cotton dresses for your little girl.

Make an attractive well-fitting, and durable dress. Some cotton dresses that a little girl must grow into are uncomfortable and often unattractive.

If you're going to make two or three new dresses, choose a becoming pattern. Cut all the dresses at once. It doesn't take any more time, but you will need plenty of pins. Although you use the same pattern, the dresses will not look alike because materials and trimmings are different.

First make all the belts, collars and pockets. Put the pockets on the dress as shown on the pattern. It is much easier to do than after the dress is put together.

After staystitching pieces of the garment, join waist and skirt. The belt is ready to be stitched in the side seams and the collar and cuffs are ready to be put on.

A trick that will save time when putting in the hem of a cotton dress is this: Turn down top of hem about one-fourth inch, press down, then machine baste them in place. Now fold them back until one-eighth of it extends beyond crease. Set machine for eight stitches to one inch; make three or four stitches into extended hem, then one in dress, now three or four stitches in hem, and one in dress. After hem is completed, take out bastings and press. Only a small stitch will show on the right side.

Arguing With A Cop Is A Losing Game

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16.—(INS)—A Pittsburgh truck driver sadly learned today over the mountain road made over a mole hill.

Charles Green was driving a truckload of coal yesterday when a policeman stopped him to check the truck's weight to see if it was over the legal limit.

Green protested that his load was within the law. As a result of the ensuing argument the officer got noseey and Green wound up in jail on seven charges.

The officer charged Green with driving with only one license plate; no muffler; no rear view mirror; no headlight; and no turn signal. Police said the inspection sticker on the truck had been stolen.

Finally, the coal in the truck was illegal and the seventh charge was preferred by the smoke prevention bureau.

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Aug. 16.—(INS)—Mrs. Lorraine F. Farnhard of Houston is convinced that one of her sons is a very durable young man.

While she was driving about 50 miles an hour today near San Angelo, one of her sons informed her, "Mom, John Mark fell out."

She stopped the car and found the two-year-old John Mark getting up from the pavement about 300 feet back.

Except for minor bruises, the youngster was apparently none the worse for his experience.

Mr. Long and Mr. Reid explained that there has been some interest in smoke control in the city and that an engineering concern had offered to make a survey of the city free of charge.

The school board was assured that the survey would put it under no obligation, and gave its permission and assured the engineers its cooperation with the survey.

The intended survey would cover the entire city of New Castle and would be followed by a report with specific recommendations.

CAN VITAMINS MAKE YOU YOUNG AGAIN?

Of course, no vitamin can restore the full flush of youth. But the RIGHT vitamin product can help you fight one powerful enemy of youth and health — inefficient energy nutrition.

Undue fatigue, loss of appetite, lary elimination, jangling nerves... these are just a few of the symptoms likely to occur when energy vitamins are missing. Your doctor, it is true, may find some organic disease to blame. But if he finds nothing wrong, try Wheatacol!

Energy Vitamins — Plus!

Wheatacol is a modern nutritional tonic-supplement providing eleven vitamins — plus iron, liver, and yeast. It is super-rich in vitamins that "spark-plug" energy nutrition. Just one Wheatacol daily gives you nearly as much Vitamin B<sub>12</sub> as a pound of wheat germ — as much Vitamin B<sub>6</sub> as 3 quarts of milk — all for only 6c daily.

Ask about Wheatacol at... Compare its formula, compare its economy. Start your Wheatacol program NOW — see if you don't feel a big difference SOON!

Tobacco Men Protesting New Cigarette Tax

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—(INS)—The addition of another penny tax on cigarettes was protested today by the Pennsylvania Association of Tobacco Distributors as a forerunner to a further revenue loss.

Claiming that a five cents a package tax in Pennsylvania would lead to an increase in cigarette bootlegging into the state, Secretary John F. Gillespie, of Shamokin, also assailed the proposed levy on tobacco products.

Both levies were suggested in a six-tax package which may be substituted for the spiked income tax.

"Because of the already exceptionally high cigarette tax," said Gillespie, "Pennsylvania loses an average five million dollars annually through deliberate tax evasion. Any increase in the state tax on tobacco products is unconscionable and will defeat its own purpose in further loss of revenue by evasion of the tax."

Federal and state imposts now amount to 60 per cent of the purchase price, he said.

Burial Friday For Vincent Migliorato

Burial will be in the Locust Grove cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home today 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 o'clock.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Maria Palazzo Migliorato, five sons, Andrew of Ellwood City, Mario of Wampum, Henry of Massillon, James of Bessemer and Alfred of Canton, O.; three daughters, Mrs. Leona Apanian, Mrs. Rose Condron and Mrs. Hilda Edwards, all of Detroit, Mich.; a brother, Dominick of Pittsburgh; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Brissini and Mrs. Pauline Rinni, both of Cassandria, and Mrs. Colinda Cardillo of Oakdale; 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Long Span Bridge Open To Traffic

WILMINGTON, Del. Aug. 26.—(INS)—The $44,000,000 Delaware Memorial bridge, the world's sixth longest span, was open for traffic today between Delaware and New Jersey.

President Truman's official greetings were read at the dedication ceremony yesterday presided over by Delaware's Gov. Elbert N. Carvel and New Jersey's Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll.

Mr. Truman said the bridge, a memorial to the war dead of both states, was not only "a boon to the motoring public and commercial transport, but in time of national defense a necessary utility."

The span was opened to traffic at midnight and the first traveler from the Delaware side was Omer C. Caton, Woodside, N.Y., who said he makes a specialty of being first at such events.

The four-laned bridge was constructed in three years and has a total length, including approaches, of three and one-half miles. The western entrance is five miles south of Wilmington and the eastern terminus is just south of Pennsboro, N.J.

'Light Of The World' Film At Portersville

The regular service of the Portersville Youth for Christ will be held on Saturday evening, August 18, at 8 o'clock in the Portersville U. P. church with Walter Bauder in charge.

Special feature of this service will be the showing of the film, "Light of the World." Throughout his 50-year ministry, Dr. Bob Jones, Sr., founder of Bob Jones University, has preached on various occasions a sermon entitled "Light of the World." It is fitting that the first production of unusual films would be this well known sermon. This 20-minute black and white picture, "Light of the World" incorporates many interesting scenes with the dramatization of several actual incidents. This film is produced by Bob Jones University.

A period of singleness and special music will precede the showing of the film.

"SOMEWHERE ON THE CAROLINE FRONT"—Grim-faced "aggressor" troops maintain an alert guard as tank commander for a medium tank surveys forward terrain, deciding where to launch his attack against defending U. S. soldiers during the "Aggressor" invasion of North Carolina. The "invasion" is part of the training maneuver exercise "Southern Pine" being staged jointly by the Army and Air Force. Note that the "enemy" has its own uniforms and tank symbols. "Aggressor" heavy armor and infantry are poised for a probable thrust against the vital roadnet in the Raleigh-Durham areas. The 229th of the Pennsylvania National Guard are on maneuvers in this area.

Twenty Swimmers In Mass Assault On Channel Today

CAP GRIZ NEZ, France, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Twenty swimmers, including seven women, began a mass assault on the English Channel today, striking out from Cap Gris Nez toward the white cliffs of Dover.

The score of swimmers, competing for $19,600 in cash prizes put up by the London Daily Mail, plunged into the cold channel waters at 7:29 British Summer Time (2:29 a.m. EDT).

After five miles, a commanding lead was held by three Egyptians—Hassan Abd El Rehim, Mareeh Hassan Hammed and Said El Arabi.

The women were paced by Mrs. Winnie Frances Roach, of Willowdale, Ontario, Canada.

Ten of the contestants already have swum the channel, eight of them in last year's competition which found only nine of 24 starters successfully negotiating the 21 miles of choppy water.

The men's 1950 winner, Hassan Abd El Rehim, 41-year-old Egyptian who completed the course in 10 hours and 49 minutes, is back for another try at the $2,800 posted for the first man to complete the swim.

The women's 1950 winner—petite, pretty 23-year-old Eileen Fenton of England—also is entered, pitting her 118 pounds against one of the most difficult swimming courses in the world.

Roy Parks Sutter, 37, of Fort Worth, Tex., was forced to withdraw before the race because of an injured leg, leaving the United States with no representative.

The contestants' trainer, "Big Sam" Rockett, declared:

"Conditions are ideal. Anything can happen."

Pits or seeds in fruits should be removed from the mouth with the thumb and first finger. Fish bones, too.

Dr. S. E. Irvine Visiting Pastor At First U.P.

Dr. S. E. Irvine will occupy the pulpit of the First United Presbyterian church Sunday, August 19, and Sunday, August 26. Rev. Robert H. Mayo, pastor of the North Hill congregation, will be vacationing during that time.

Dr. Irvine is a former minister of First church, having served in this city prior to Rev. Mayo's pastorate. Since retiring from the local church four years ago he and Mrs. Irvine have been residing at Penney Farms, Fla. This is their first visit to New Castle in two years.

Dr. Irvine occupied the pulpit of Highland U. P. church last Sunday during the vacation of Rev. Dale K. Milligan, the associate pastor.

LANSING, Mich.—Mrs. Millard O. Johnson found more than 50 four-leaf clovers in her front yard. The next day, she won a waffle iron and jewelry set by identifying a tune on a radio quiz program.

War Hero Dies

A military funeral is planned at Zevay, Ind., for Samuel Woodfill, 68, once acclaimed by General Pershing as the greatest of American World War I heroes. Woodfill was found dead in his apartment where he lived alone. He single-handedly killed 19 enemy soldiers, including four in hand-to-hand combat. (International)

Phone Honor Way Just Won't Pay

TOKYO—(INS)—The honor system in paying for telephone calls from public booths in Tokyo is on its way out.

The honor system was introduced when coins disappeared from circulation in Japan during the war.

Public telephone users were told to drop paper money in a wooden box placed near the telephone. The system worked—for a while.

Telephone authorities reported that people were so honest that, in some cases when they did not have change, they left more money than required. However, in recent months the public pay station operation has been in the red.

Officials blamed it on "the decay of post-war morality."

The newly-installed coin-operated telephones, however, may never be put into operation. A plan to mint nickel coins had to be dropped because American war industry requirements on nickel were such that there was none left for the Japanese mint to buy.

Adm. Joy Is From Missouri, Reds Have To 'Show Him'

By CECIL BROWNLOW
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

UN BASE CAMP NEAR KAESONG, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, a thin-faced, tight-lipped Missourian, is living up to his heritage of "having to be shown" by beating the Oriental at his own game of patience.

Joy, a fighting sailor saddled to a desk and then suddenly thrown in to conduct armistice negotiations for a predominantly ground war, has led the United Nations delegation through 24 harrowing meetings.

During this time he and his cause have been accused of being "absurd," "arrogant" and "self-contradictory" by an Oriental schooled in the virtue of patience.

Remains Aloof
The Oriental, North Korean Gen. Nam Il, has almost lost his veneer of inscrutability, but Joy remains as a pinnacle of aloofness.

He held his calm front through 10 tedious meetings that always seemed on the verge of disaster as the two delegations argued and cajoled over what would appear on the agenda.

Except for one instance, he remained calm through the 14 succeeding sessions in which Nam and Joy have locked horns on where to draw a demarcation line across Korea.

The one exception, when Joy broke away from his usual "coolly logical" phraseology, brought on a chance in the adamant Red stand that may lead to a settlement of the issue.

It was then, last Saturday, that Joy the sailor told Nam the politico-militarist:

You did not come here to stop the fighting. You did not come here to negotiate an armistice. You came here to state your price—your political price for which you are willing to sell the people of Korea a temporary respite from pain."

It was a rough statement uttered by a rough man in clipped mid-western tones.

Nam Il Mad
It sent Nam Il, the patient Oriental, hustling from the conference room with an angry flush on his cheeks and with an emotional wave of his arms.

Joy, the inscrutable, with the balance of peace and war riding on his shoulders, stepped calmly from the conference building and playfully snapped the picture of an agency photographer waiting in the courtyard.

It was one of the few times he was so relaxed at KAESONG.

To insure against any leaks, he has consistently refused to answer any questions.

Greeted by a newsman with a "nice day isn't it, admiral," his reply will be "is it?"

His unhurried, patient outlook follows him from KAESONG to the guarded confines of the armistice camp where no newsman is allowed.

At the camp, he almost nonchalantly tosses off the worries of the day by attending a movie on a sandbag seat or throwing a baseball with other delegates, usually Generals Hodges and Craigie.

Joy invariably wears a fielders glove.

Whether Joy is pitching military logic at KAESONG or baseball at the base camp, he handles himself equally well. Says press briefing officer Brig. Gen. William Nuckols:

"He looks as though he has played some ball before."

Bus Fares Hiked To Washington, Pa.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Rates go up today on Pennsylvania routes of the White Star Lines, Inc., of Hagerstown, Md., which radiate from Pittsburgh to Washington, Pa., and Uniontown.

The Public Utility Commission sanctioned a series of increases including a five-cent rise to 20 cents for the fare between Pittsburgh and Uniontown and Mt. Lebanon.

A similar increase will be made for the ride between Donora and North Charlestown and Charlestown.

Minimum one-way 10-cent fares on some routes will be increased to 15 cents, the PUC said, to bring the firm's rates in line with those of other transportation companies in the Pittsburgh area.

The increase will produce $56,000 more a year for the firm, according to the PUC.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 15 —

(INS)—The way is clear today for Mayor Kendig C. Bare of Lancaster to complete the term that was interrupted by his call to active service as an army reserve captain.

Bare was appointed by city council yesterday to succeed his older brother, Howard, who had replaced him early this year when he left for military service.

He will have to run again at a special election in November for the unexpired portion of his term extending to January 1, 1954.

Bare, a Republican, will have no opposition, however, because Democratic candidate Harry Goodhart withdrew his name from the race today in line with a previous pledge.

City Will Make Traffic Count

Continue To Oppose Watchman Removal

The City of New Castle plans to continue its fight against the removal of the watchman from the busy Montgomery avenue railroad crossing where numerous Pennsylvania trains cross daily. The railroad has petitioned the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission for authority to substitute automatic gates and a flasher at the crossing.

In their effort to block the railroad's plans to do away with the manually operated gates, a traffic count is to be taken in order to provide figures to the P.U.C. which will prove that the railroad crossing is too important a one to have automatic signals erected.

City solons conferred recently with the state highway department superintendent, Alfred A. Martin to solicit the state's help in taking the traffic count. Mr. Martin advised that it was best for the city to go ahead in the count without the assistance of the state highway department which preferred to remain neutral in the matter.

Mr. Martin felt that traffic was sufficiently high at that point especially since the removal of the Route 18 detour to warrant a count, but advised the city to take the count on its own. Since the reopening of Route 18, traffic has more than doubled over Montgomery avenue which is a portion of the state highway route.

Due to the fact that Councilman E. Gene Schweinsberg, director of streets is on vacation, it was not possible to ascertain when the city would take the count to substantiate its claim that the removal of the watchman would be a dangerous thing and invite needless accidents and loss of life. The P.U.C. agents will hold a hearing later on the matter and hear both sides of the question.

Entertain Children At Metz Cottage

A happy exuberant lot of children numbering 22, from Simpson Methodist church, romped, frolicked and played to their hearts' content on Tuesday and Wednesday at the Metz cottage along the Neshannock creek.

The boys and girls who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Metz, were transported to the cottage site in four cars and hardly had the cars stopped on Tuesday morning had the fun begun. Football, basketball, horseshoes, badminton, swimming and many, many other outdoor sports were on the agenda to the youngsters who seemingly had a never-ending store of energy.

Food in large quantities was consumed by the hungry boys and girls who were treated to corn roasts, wiener roasts and a spaghetti dinner in which more than eight pounds of spaghetti were devoured. The tired but happy throng of kiddies were housed overnight at the cottage but were on the job early Wednesday morning to continue their fun.

Reluctantly they pulled stakes late Wednesday night for the return trip home with some not wanting to come back home as their enjoyment of the outdoors was so great.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Metz with the care of the youngsters were: George Ritchie and Mrs. Isaac Liewelijn of the Sunday school staff.

Sec. Brannan Urges Farmers To Harvest Available Hay

All-Time Egg Output In State Seems Assured

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—(INS)—Agriculture secretary Brannan urged the nation's farmers today to harvest all available hay and pasture seed to assure future supplies of forage for expanding livestock production.

While stressing the need to back up meat supplies, the secretary also pointed out that erosion control and other conservation benefits are equally important in the long run.

Brannan declared that the present heavy draft on feed grain reserves makes it imperative to boost hay production in 1952. Previous production guides have called for 900,000 acres of alfalfa, 2,000,000 acres of red clover and 100,000 acres of ladino clover—all for seed production.

Although tobacco prospects deteriorated during July, current agriculture department estimates of about 2.5 billion pounds are nearly eleven percent above last year.

Yields are likely to be lower than in 1950 for flue-cured and burley types, but a larger acreage will more than make up for that.

Production of flue-cured tobacco was estimated at about 1.4 billion pounds by agriculture officials, about a million pounds above 1950. Output would have been higher this season but hot, dry weather hit most growing areas, and the crop was hurt, particularly in some areas of North Carolina.

Burley production, too, is lower than a month ago, but at 576 million pounds the current forecast is 78 million pounds above last year's level. Inadequate rainfall during July limited production in many areas.

Five German dairy experts on a two-month tour of U. S. dairy plants believe they have found the key to increasing milk quality and consumption in Western Germany. The formula they discovered is a simple, automatic flow-diversion valve commonly used in U. S. "flash" pasteurization processes.

The German dairymen say their production of milk per cow probably equals that of American dairy farms. But milk consumption is low because the German people have little confidence in the sanitary practices of their dairy industry.

Many drastic revisions in present milk handling procedures will be recommended by the team on their return, but the major reform will be the flow-diversion valve.

This device assures that every ounce of milk put into a pasteurizer is freed of disease-carrying germs.

MIDST OF PLENTY
NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(INS)—Seventy-three-year-old Charles Hoffman lived in a $7-a-week Brooklyn rooming house, wore shabby clothes and received social security and unemployment insurance checks.

The only factor which failed to fit into the picture of a tired, impoverished old man was that Hoffman owned a 1951 automobile.

Tuesday night the pensioner was found dead of a heart attack. Police investigating Hoffman's bare, top-floor room learned the answer to the new car when they found a fortune estimated at half a million dollars in a small black suitcase hidden in a closet.

Crops In State Need More Rain

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16—(INS)—An all-time record in egg production by Pennsylvania farm flocks has just about been clinched but rain is needed to improve crop conditions.

The State Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that at the end of July 2,150,000,000 eggs were produced exceeding the total for the corresponding period in 1950 by 66,000,000.

Secretary Miles Horst predicted that by the end of 1951 the total will top the 3,377,000,000 eggs reported last year.

The department said rain during the week ended yesterday was not sufficient to promote growth but crops generally are in good condition. A deficiency in rainfall is threatening potato yields in many sections. The department's crop report follows:

Harvesting Apples
Harvesting of Gravenstein and Smokehouse apples is underway. Dry weather has slowed sizing of late varieties in some sections. Picking of early peaches continues with Golden Jubilees, Cumberlands and Triogems available on some markets.

Warm nights favored development of corn, especially where soil moisture was adequate. Color of most fields is good. Ears of earliest plantings are nearing full size. In northern counties a small acreage of wheat remains to be combined or threshed. Harvest-

Street Festival Attracts Crowd

A gala, colorful display of fireworks brought to a close the third annual street festival, on Wednesday evening, sponsored by the St. Vitus Holy Name Society.

Several thousands of persons attended the third and final evening of the three-day festival. Entertainment was provided for both the young and old.

Early in the evening a band concert was presented by the Red Coat band, under the direction of B. J. Bondi. The rides for the kiddies were in full swing the entire evening and the festivities and activities continued until late in the evening, when the festival was brought to a close.

Dr. John Prioretti, president of the Holy Name Society, thanked the crowd for participating in what was considered the most successful of festivals.

Chairman of the festival William Ross, thanked his committees for assisting him in such a splendid manner and thanked Dr. Prioretti for appointing him as chairman of this year's street festival. Closing remarks were made by the co-chairman, Edward A. DeCarbo.

This year's festival took place, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. On Tuesday, inclement weather dampened the spirits of those present, but all activities for that evening were postponed until Wednesday evening.

Street dancing and crowning of a festival queen were earlier festival highlights. All in all, the festival proved to be highly entertaining and enjoyable and this was accomplished by the hard work put forth by the entire committee.

Also present last evening were Rev. Fr. Nicholas DeMita, pastor, and assistants, Rev. Fr. Albert M. Inteso, and Rev. Fr. Raymond Heintz. They are grateful for the efficient manner in which the festival was held. All proceeds will be contributed to the St. Vitus parochial school fund.

New Amendments To Affect Young Amish

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—(INS)—The House was asked today by the Senate to concur in amendments to legislation allowing Amish children to leave school at the age of 14 to work on farms of their parents.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Harry Price, Jr., (R) Mifflin, was amended to restrict domestic service and farm work of children to the homes of their parents. The phrase "in loco parentis" included in the House version, was eliminated by the Senate counter-proposal.

The Price bill was drafted to solve the difficulties experienced by Amish parents when they observe their religious tenets and withdraw children from schools for farm work before the boys and girls reach the age of 16—the minimum age of exiting classrooms under the school code.

Mine Workers Would Fight Medical Board

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 16.—(INS)—The United Mine Workers today is carrying to the state legislature a fight to oust the medical board created by the occupational disease act.

Union legislative representative Lester Thomas said an amendment to eliminate the board will be introduced in the senate.

Miners, he said, are opposed to the board because some workers who are victims of anthracosis and silicosis are being refused benefits without personal examination by the board.

The new legislation would replace a similar amendment that was defeated in the house.

Thomas added that the senate labor committee also is considering amendments to wipe out features in the act that are objectionable to the miners.

Politics Thought Reason For PUC's Delay Request

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Politics was one of the reasons for the public utility commission's request to the state superior court for a 20-day delay in reconsidering the $17,964,000 rate boost for the Pennsylvania Bell Telephone Co., the five-member agency has been operating with four commissioners since the term of Chairman John Siggins ended last April. Governor Fine has delayed an appointment for reasons of his own, one of which also is undoubtedly rooted in politics. The PUC's request for a delay expiring August 20 reflected a desire to have the Bell rate case reconsidered by a full commission to avoid any chance of a split vote which would be possible. Governor Fine has delayed filling the vacancy during the session of the general assembly because he would have to submit the nomination to the senate for approval and he is having enough trouble with rebel Republicans in the upper chamber, after the 1951 session is adjourned. Fine's appointment will not need senate confirmation until the 1953 meeting. Fine also knows that his nomination of Milo F. Draemel for another four-year term as forests and waters secretary has never been approved by the senate. Draemel's term will end, if he doesn't win confirmation prior to adjournment, with the session but Fine may reappoint him immediately as allowed by law.

The general reaction among many employees at the State Capitol when reports of slot machines at a general state authority picnic were investigated by five agencies was: why single out the GSA? Slot machines sometimes have a way of appearing at such functions even though committees have made no arrangements for them.

The select senate group investigating possible substitute levies for the income tax which was spiked by the finance committee offered a red-faced explanation about its interest in newspaper circulation when Theodore A. Scerrill, manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association, wrote senate president pro tempore M. Harvey Taylor and formally protested such a levy the chain reaction started. Governor Fine joined senate finance committee Chairman T. Newell Wood (R) Luzerne, in branding erroneous reports of a possible circulation tax. Scerrill's letter to Taylor revealed that the person who had contacted the PNPA and asked about circulation figures was none other than Wood. Later, Wood claimed he had been joking. Incidentally, Scerrill's letter pointed out that in 1936 the U. S. supreme court overruled Louisiana which had imposed a circulation tax at the instance of then Governor Huey Long. He had particularly bad relations with that section of the press which was hit by the levy.

The legislature is moving into the closing phase of the 1951 session with relations between Governor Fine and the senate a little more strained than the ties between the house and the upper chamber. The 1951 session will go down in legislative history as the first in almost two decades to refuse enactment on a major tax proposal made by the governor. The income tax appeared doomed to defeat from its inception. It took the house two roll call votes to get it into the senate where it never reached the floor. The governor is none too happy about the senate rebuff while the house GOP membership is angered because most Republicans voted, under severe pressure, for the income levy while their senate counterparts ducked a roll call.

MAE ARTHUR FOR PRESIDENT
WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(INS)—Rep. Miller (R) Neb., urges that the Republican nominating convention next July draft Gen. Douglas MacArthur as the GOP presidential candidate.

Miller, who backed MacArthur for the nomination in 1948, said he has asked the Republican National Committee to name the General as the keynote speaker at the convention, which will be held in Chicago.

COMPLETE LOSS OF POWER caused a giant B-50 bomber to crash and explode against a Seattle apartment house, killing at least 11 persons, a preliminary inquiry indicates. ## Decline Forecast For Year In Onion And Lettuce Crops

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Agriculture Department experts expect lower production for two-thirds of the nation's vegetable crops this summer, but total output will still be nearly as large as last year.

The report summer onions will make the biggest tonnage drop because of slightly smaller acreage and yields far below last year's record levels.

Lettuce will make the second biggest decline, with cabbage third. However, reductions for other crops are not expected to be very large in terms of summer tonnage. Total production is estimated at 3.4 million tons, about one percent less than last year.

The only summer crops with a larger production than 1950 will be celery, sweet corn, spinach, tomatoes and watermelons. Watermelon eaters can look forward to a new record commercial harvest of nearly 81.9 million melons this summer.

Forecasts are available for only three of the early fall vegetable crops. Production of domestic cabbage, celery and tomatoes will be down from last year.

These important crops accounted for about one-third of last year's fall tonnage. Now, combined production prospects for the three are down by 15 percent.

What's cow worth? Illinois extension alters are passing along a story which doesn't give an answer to that question, but might help you to draw your own conclusions.

Here's the story, as told by an Illinois dairyman:

"There is more to a cow than meets the eye. Mere looks might be very deceiving. 'Take Number 56 in our herd. She's big and bulky—rather coarse looking, with an udder that would scarcely score 75. If I didn't know her better, I would sell her. The butcher might offer me $300. 'By the end of her fourth year on dairy herd improvement test, she had earned for us $1,636.17 over cost of feed. She has given us five calves. Her daughters already are cows and are well on their way to outproduce mom. 'Number 56 will live to produce for many more years. When her time is up, she will give us her worth! 'You tell me what a cow is worth!'

Joe Louis Wins In Dull Fight

Bivins No Match For Aging Joe

By BILL CORUM
(U. S. Sports Writer)

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16.—Two guys trying to fight from memory met in Baltimore's Memorial stadium last night. Both their memories were bad.

The important one of the duo, Joe Louis, fights now like I feel, and I was born in 1894. Louis won all the way in a romp from Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland. But it must be that when a fellow is 37, romping ceases to be fun. I don't exactly remember it that way, although, at 57, I know it is.

Ol' Joe and what an honest and decent man he is! said to me after the fight that it was a battle of left hands. Lee's and Grant's, one presumes.

Very Dull Fight

And still, strange as it may sound, you couldn't escape the feeling that if Joe Walcott had been in there, instead of Bivins, who scaled 180½, the one-time Brown Bomber, weighing 203½, might very well have emerged heavyweight champion of the world again.

It was a quiet fight before a quiet crowd, albeit the largest in the history of boxing in Maryland—18,215 with a $75,217 gross gate. To go into the dull details would be to waste your time. Plus which, the details couldn't possibly have been duller.

Large Percentage Polio Located In Six State Counties

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Fifty-six per cent of the 168 cases of poliomyelitis reported in Pennsylvania since January 1 are located today in five of the state's 67 counties.

By mid-August last year, 227 polio cases were reported. The State Health Department's weekly report showed no pattern for infection although 33 counties have announced one or more cases of the dread disease. The 1951 polio outbreak will decline sharply by mid-September.

Since 1951 polio season started in mid-June, 141 cases have been reported. The counties leading the 1951 polio reports are Dauphin 33, Allegheny, 23; Fayette, 19; Cambria, 12; and Philadelphia, 7.

Next in line with five each are Blair, Lancaster, Wayne and Delaware, while Bucks, Crawford, and Northampton each have reported four each.

Counties listing three cases each are Armstrong, Cumberland, Lebanon, and Mercer while Beaver, Erie, Indiana, Mifflin, Northumberland, Schuylkill and Sullivan each have reported two cases.

Single cases have been reported by Adams, Carbon, Clarion, Fulton, Jefferson, Lawrence, Montgomery, Potter, Venango, and York counties.

Helicopter Makes Quick Evacuation

WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION, U. S. Army in Korea—(INS)—A time saver to medical aid men and a morale booster to front-line troops was demonstrated on the western Korean front when a helicopter evacuated an injured first cavalry division soldier from a 2,800-foot mountain peak in a matter of minutes.

"It would have taken a litter team at least three to five hours to remove the man," said Cpl. Richard L. Higgins of Rochester, N. Y., an aid man with Company G, fifth cavalry regiment.

Corporal Higgins explained the problem of evacuation from the towering crest had not only entered the minds of aid station attendants but also platoon commanders.

"Aid men are equipped to handle most emergency cases," Higgins said, "but at times it is necessary for an immediate evacuation which is difficult at this height."

"We soon had the problem of immediate evacuation in our laps when a man setting out friendly trip flares—the army's illumination device for detecting the enemy—accidentally tripped one of the release wires, fracturing his leg. It was necessary that the man be hauled to a rear aid station for proper medical treatment and X-ray."

"We decided to try the helicopter evacuation plan. About five minutes after a call to the rear area, a 'windmill' was hovering overhead and landed on an old oriental wall, a short distance from my aid station."

Farm Electrification To Be Marked August 26

Three decades that have revolutionized farm living and production, virtually completing the task of bringing electric power to the nation's farms, will be acclaimed in a countrywide "Farm Electrification Week" observance August 26 to September 1.

The Pennsylvania Power Company, together with rural dwellers, will mark the near-completion of a program that has carried electric power to 96 per cent of the farms within its area. This attainment has meant convenience, increased farm production and efficiency.

In 1951 Pennsylvania Power Company furnished an average of 4,086 kilowatt hours per farm, as compared with a national average of 2,335 kilowatt hours. The use in 1950 was 180 per cent greater than the average in 1940; for the nation as a whole the increase was only 118 per cent.

A total of 140 farms was receiving power from the company in 1920. By 1935, 2,497 farms were connected to power lines. In 1950 a total of 8,906 farms in the area was using 38,980 kilowatt hours of electricity.

Danilov Named To Junior High School Coaching Position

Eli Danilov, June 1951 graduate of Youngstown college, will coach and teach at Ben Franklin junior high school, when school opens this fall.

Danilov's application for the position was accepted subject to state certification. His Youngstown, O., scholastic credits must be approved and credited by Pennsylvania.

The recent graduate was a four-year basketball man at Youngstown and this past year, captained and helped with some of the coaching.

At Franklin he will coach basketball and assist in football. He will teach Social Science and History.

Danilov is presently a resident of Campbell, O.

Penn State's proposal to eliminate spring football practice will be officially brought to the attention of the Eastern College Athletic Conference at a meeting of its executive committee in New York on September 6.

Dangerous Toy To Be Re-Designed For Safety Sake

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 16.—(INS)—The "Little Atom," the Japanese toy pistol that drew the ire of American police officials and parents because of its too-close resemblance to the real thing, is going to be made into a safe toy.

A spokesman for the British exporters of the controversial toy pistol said today that a new model of the miniature gun, with safety features added, is now being designed.

The executive of the ancient trading firm of Jardine and Matheson said the projected safeguard will consist of a pin driven three-fourths of the way through the barrel so that the young user can not shoot pellets or other projectiles.

The official said: "This will make the Little Atom just the noisemaker it was originally intended to be."

He said the manufacture of the gun was discontinued about two weeks ago after receipt of the report that police authorities in various American cities banned sales of the gun as a "dangerous weapon."

The official, at first reticent to admit his firm was responsible for the "Little Atom" shipments to the United States, said he regretted the toy pistol had caused injury to several people.

He said approximately 3,000 dozen "Little Atoms" have been exported in "three or four shipments" since April.

The toy pistols are manufactured in Osaka, Japan's industrial capital. Parts are manufactured in small workshops which work on a home industry basis and then assembled and packed for export.

The Japanese ministry of international trade and industry said it had authorized the export of the gun after obtaining clearance from Gen. Matthew M. Ridgway's occupation headquarters.

Dummies Of GIs Get Red Flames

BERLIN — Wooden dummies representing U. S. soldiers are being used by Communist Peoples Police troops as flamethrower targets.

East German military sources reported today a new special unit is being trained as specialists in flamethrower techniques. The men completing the course are scheduled to be dispersed as instructors among other units of the Soviet zone military force.

At the same time the East German informants reported that special groups of police troopers and non-commissioned officers have been sent to war academies in Russia for training in the use of radar devices.

On their return to the Soviet zone they are to be incorporated in a new Peoples Police "Aerial Defense Branch."

These sources said the Soviets expect to be able to assign operation of the entire East zone radar system to the Peoples Police by the end of this year.

Cleveland Indians Maintain Lead With 9-4 Victory Over Browns

Yankees Win, Dodgers Lose

Pirates Register Shutout Of Cards

By HOWARD SIGMANT
U. S. Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The rab bit is off for a brief vacation in the major leagues today, but the magical Cleveland Indians are still up to their victory tricks.

Four of the seven games played under the stars last night produced shutouts, but the pennant-driving Indians had no part in this power-stuffing business.

Tied All-Time Streak
In fact, they did just the opposite in rumbling to their 13th straight victory, a 9 to 4 decision over the St. Louis Browns and Ned Garver. The Indians, whose streak ties the all-time club record set in 1941, made use of the rabbit ball as they teed off for seven runs in the first inning off the St. Louis one-man "staff."

The big sock in the inning was a grand-slam homer by Al Rosen. The third baseman, who has 21 homers for the season, got into the record books by equalling a major league mark. It was Al's fourth grand-slammer of the year.

Early Wynn was credited with his 13th victory, although he needed help from Steve Gromek in the sixth. Garver, gunning for win No. 15, suffered his seventh loss.

Kiner Hits 32nd
The New York Yankees stayed 2½ games off the pace by whipping the Washington Senators, 8 to 5.

Bob Friend hurled a two-hitter as Pittsburgh blanked the Cardinals, 7 to 0, but the rookie walked nine men. Ralph Kiner's 32nd homer and a triple accounted for four runs.

Spahn won his sixth shutout of the season as the Braves handed the Phillies their fifth straight loss, 9 to 0.

Raffensberger won a 1 to 0 squeaker over the Chicago Cubs. Rogovin tossed a five-hitter as the Chicago blanked the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 0.

Another tightly-pitched game saw the New York Giants down the Brooklyn Dodgers for the second straight time, 3 to 1.

Mel Parnell of the Boston Red Sox won his 13th of the year when he turned back the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 2.

New Castle Indians Top Erie, 6-3; Head For Falls

(Special To The News)

ERIE, Aug. 16.—New Castle salvaged its final game of a three-game series here Wednesday, when the Indians capitalized on five passes and a single in the ninth frame to break a 3-3 deadlock and triumph by a 6-3 count.

Bob Weaver, seeking his 14th win, and Paul Krafner (11-6) had been hooked up in a tight pitching duel. Weaver's streak of wildness brought his fifth loss instead.

Weaver, who had trouble getting by the first man in the last six frames, opened the New Castle ninth by walking Bob Lavan. Bill Horne, troublesome Indians catcher, then hit a bounding ball to Bob Liko. It looked like a sure double play. However, the ball took a mean hop over Liko's head for a single and helped bring about Weaver's downfall.

Wild Throw Helps
Klafner walked to load the sacks. Joe Urso hit into a fielder's choice with Liko getting lavan at home. Orlando Echevarria, Erie catcher.

Frisina Real Thorn
Frisina, a native of Corry, proved a real thorn in Weaver's side all night long. He drove in single-runners in the third, fifth and seventh frames.

Erie got to Klafner for a run in the first inning after the game had been held up 56 minutes because of a thunder shower. Pete Peatros singled, took second on Frisina's error and tallied on Jack Byers' hit into center.

Miss Scoring Chance
The Sailors scored in the second when Eli Russo walked, went to second on Bill Brown's sacrifice, stole third and romped home on a wild pitch.

Erie's final run came in the sixth when Russo singled and Brown doubled.

The Cubs threw away an excellent scoring chance in the seventh when Bob DiBunno opened with a triple to the scoreboard. However, he died on third.

The Teamsters, through Valentino, were awarded a commissioner's decision and the second game would have been resumed from the third inning. At the time the Teamsters were leading 1-0.

However, individual protests and decisions were then initiated, causing confusion. Valentino then withdrew his protest and the second game Ross-Morelli win held up.

Tag Day Saturday For Little League

Boys between the ages of eight and 12 years will be on the streets of New Castle Saturday selling tags to the businessmen and shoppers.

These boys, who will be all decked out in complete baseball uniforms, will represent the Little League Baseball, Inc., of New Castle.

They will be selling tags in an effort to help raise funds to keep their league in operation. The league is currently in the red to the tune of about $1200 and the funds raised through the tag sale added to the gate receipts at the games at Little League field should help to pull it out of debt.

In addition to the boys selling tags on the streets, other boys will be selling tags house-to-house in residential areas.

Little League Title Series To Begin Here Friday Night

Best-of-three series for the Little League championship of the Lawrence county will get underway Friday evening at the Little League field at Dean Park.

The Fourth Ward, champions of the first half of the New Castle league, will meet the Moose team of Ellwood City for the county title.

All games will be played at Little League field in New Castle due to Lincoln high field in Ellwood City being needed for football.

Second game of the series will be played Monday evening, and the third game, if necessary, Wednesday evening.

Second Straight Title
The Moose team of Ellwood City captured the Ellwood Little League championship earlier this week by romping over the Kiwanis team 14-3 in a playoff game.

It won 12 straight games in coping its second straight Ellwood championship. Dick Friedhoff, Walt Feerst, "Grundy" Voiple and "Hink" Richards help handle the team.

The Fourth Ward team of New Castle defeated the Third Ward in a playoff game for the first half title here, and is considered one of the best, if not the best, in the county.

There has always been a strong rivalry between Ellwood City and New Castle in sports events and this series is expected to be one of the top competitive events between the two communities.

The Ellwood Little League teams have received tremendous backing by the fans of the community and are expected to bring many of their fans here for the series.

HURLS NO-HIT GAME
Bob Mangione of the Seventh Ward entered the Little Leaguers Hall-of-Fame Wednesday evening, when he hurled a no-hit, no-run game at Lee Avenue field.

Paul Geib will lead the Pitts on the alleys this season. . . . Joe Schuld of Kingston, Pa., has carved from wood a display of fresh and salt water fish. The wood was obtained from all parts of the world. . . . From January 1 to April 14, 1951, the State Fish commission stocked 1,225,310 trout of legal size, weighing a gross of about 190 tons, in trout waters in Pennsylvania. The cost of fish food alone, exclusive of personnel and other expenses is reported for 1950 to have cost $202,684.46. . . . Some members of the Lawrence County Sportsman's association are filling their teeth in anticipation of their coming corn roast. . . . Kenny Myers no longer is handicapped, a broken arm having mended. . . . Years ago Kenny played baseball with Pulaski. . . . Those who watched Bob Baker pound Omelia Agramonte to the floor nine times and win the award at Pittsburgh, report he was too fat.

FRANKIE VAN, formerly of Cleveland, now of California, who referees and conditions motion film folk, is booming a fight picture in Pittsburgh. Van boxed in the Opera House here about 34 or 35 years ago. Joe Alexander may recall Van, because Joe handled some fighters in the show. . . . Miz Dart, the ex-grinder, operates a string of cottages near the Causeway, at Pymatuning dam. . . . The only Graeco-American to have boxed here adopted the ring name "Teddy R." He boxed in Humbert hall. . . . Ellwood Citizens expect a bang-up wrestling show August 20. The Dapper Dons are promoting the affair. Joe Fracl, City recreation board employee, with the close of the playgrounds, will turn his attention toward the Mahoning avenue skating rink, to fit it for ice skating. . . . Mickey Forkins, former local welterweight who grew into a middleweight, and boxed the best in the nation, is running a cafe in Warren, O. where Lallo Sabotin, who also boxed here, is Warren's top light-heavyweight. His manager, Jack Thompson, is a city fireman. . . . When Al Zill passed away in Youngstown, boxing also died. . . . Answer to E.P.: Yes, a blacksnake can kill a rattlesnake. . . . Mike Daino, who likes his baseball, is a Moose club employee. . . . John Favorite, basketball enthusiast, is in business in East Washington street. . . . Men and women on official leave from armed forces may hunt or fish in Ohio without a license.

Forced Air Corn Drying Means Less Insect Loss

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Early harvesting and corn drying through forced air ventilation are the latest suggestions for mid-west farmers from the agriculture department.

The forced air method, engineers say, enables the farmer to harvest and condition his corn without worrying too much about mold, no matter what the weather.

The use of mechanical pickers early in the fall has resulted in a better harvesting job. More of the husks are removed and less of the corn is left in the field. When the harvest is early the moisture content of the crop is high—about 30 per cent. Corn is mature before this moisture content is reached.

An early harvest, the department says, means less loss of corn because of insect damage and might even help the farmer plow or fall seed the same land.

Reduce Frost Danger

When a farmer harvests his seed corn early he reduces the danger of frost damage, which might mean the seed won't germinate and grow.

Now the early harvest is becoming more practical because good, workable portable drying equipment and storage designed for forced air ventilation is becoming available on the market.

Also, the advent of electricity on most midwestern farms makes the method convenient and comparatively cheap.

What kind of ventilating system should a farmer use?

Officials say this is a question which each operator must answer for himself.

Tests show an unheated ventilation system will dry corn in from two to six weeks, while heated forced air will probably dry the same corn in three to four days, regardless of the weather.

But the equipment is expensive. A motor driven fan and a heating unit, usually an oil burner, is required.

Engineers point out that this type costs money. But then, the cost of fuel for drying the crop may often run as high as five or six cents a bushel.

However, power costs would be less than for the unheated equipment because the fan would not have to run very long.

In Europe the custom of executing criminals on Friday stems back to the Middle Ages. Because of the custom, Friday was known as "hangman's day."

Jap Treaty Bad Says Red Chinese

TOKYO, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Chinese Communist Foreign Minister Chou En-lai today declared that the proposed Japanese peace treaty "violates international agreements and therefore is basically unacceptable."

Today's Fashion Flash

By PHYLLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(INS)—It's the latest fashion gimmick—gems on gams!

Hosiery makers determined to make stockings the glitter accessory of the year, introduced today a new line of nylons . . . embroidered in beads, pearls and nylons.

"Prestige hosiery" designers showed a 1952 collection of stockings equipped with the most startling set of jewel designs yet sewn into an ankle, instep or heel-back of a nylon.

Included in the collection were these typical examples:

The "Charmer"—a stocking with a white pearl and rhinestone flower dangling between mid-calf and ankle; the "Star-Catcher"—a dainty rhinestone star-shape sewn to the hose on the outer instep; the "Baroque"—a simulated baroque pearl, centered with a ruby bead, posed on the instep; and the "Heel-Gazer"—a row of rhinestones sewn across the top of a heel reinforcement.

Hearst Service Friday In Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—(INS)—Funeral services for William Randolph Hearst will be held at 11 a. m. Friday at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

The body of the publisher lay in state today in the chapel of the Cathedral, located atop Nob hill in San Francisco where he was born 88 years ago.

American Legionnaires, Veterans of Foreign Wars and San Francisco police and firemen formed an honor guard at his bier. The dynamic publisher will be buried beside his father and mother in San Francisco's Cypress Lawn cemetery.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 15.—(INS)—A crackdown on motorists failing to use hand signals while driving was promised today by State Revenue Secretary Otto F. Messner.

He threatened suspension of driving permits of violators.

"Giving hand signals is common sense, it is courtesy and it is law," he said. "Despite these reasons this provision in the vehicle code constantly is being violated."
